Midwest Democrats Go All-Out For Truman

8 States' Leaders Urge Southerners To Do Likewise; Slap Wallace, GOP

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Des Moines, Iowa, April 11. Democratic leaders from eight Midwestern States unanimously decided to stand by President Truman for the Democratic nomination and called on Southern Democrats to stop their party differences.

Democratic spuokesmen for the eight States, representing 156 votes in the Democratic National Convention slapped alike at Henry Wallace and the Republican Congress, and adopted this resolution:

"We are wholeheartedly behind the President and we believe that for the good of the Nation he must be elected in November along with a Democratic Congress. . . ."

There wasn't a dissenting voice in the Midwest bloc although recently some in this group were casting about for a Truman alternative.

Taken at Face Value

Nor was any fuel added to the latest Eisenhower boom. Carl V. Rice, Kansas national committeeman representing Eisenhower's home State, told reporters:

"His (Eisenhower's) candidacy would be a great help to the Democratic Party in Kansas, but he has said he will not be a candidate. We take that at face value. It would be a gross insult not to take him at his word."

Of the 13 States in the Midwest Democratic Conference, representing a total of 244 convention votes, only five failed to show at today's board of directors meeting.

The formal conference was thrown open to the press after a series of closed talks with National Committeeman James Quigley of Nebraska, chairman of the conference, and Jake More, Iowa State Democratic chairman, secretary. More told newsmen the meeting was "our own idea" and was not inspired by Washington Democratic Headquarters.

Urged to Vote as Bloc

The group called on Midwest convention delegates to "resolve all differences within the (Midwest) conference and vote as a bloc at the Democratic National Convention for the platform and candidates which will best serve to bring peace and prosperity to our Nation and the Midwestern States.

This "come home" plea was extended to the Southern Democratic leaders whose civil rights rebellion precipitated the Democratic Party crisis:

"We strongly urge that our Southern associates in the party resolve to send their delegates to the national convention and join in writing a platform stating our

Deaf Mutes Fined For Loud Conduct At Card Game

New York, April 11 (AP).—Ten deaf mutes accused of "loud and boisterous conduct while playing cards," each paid a dollar fine yesterday over the protests of a reluctant Brooklyn judge.

After they insisted on pleading guilty to making a racket while playing blackjack, Magistrate Francis X. Giaccone wrote them a note asking, "How could you make any noise?"

One of the prisoners demonstrated by banging and juggling a courtroom table.

Reluctantly the magistrate fined them a dollar apiece. Then, with a puzzled expression, he asked the courtroom at large:

"Who am I to insist they do not have equal rights with other card players who draw the attention of the police? But for the life of me I cannot see if they are deaf how they can hear any noise they say they made."

Third Party's Convention Set July 24-25

Wallace Supporters Also Condemn U. S. Activities on Italy

Chicago, April 11 (AP).—The national Wallace for President Committee today called a national founding convention of the third party at the Philadelphia Convention Hall July 24 and 25.

The convention is expected to nominate Henry A. Wallace for President and Senator Glen Taylor (D., Idaho) for Vice President. It will select a name for the new independent party.

The 400 delegates to a third party conference here also adopted an antiwar resolution and called for "establishment of a truly representative," democratic Italian government. They condemned "the efforts of our Government to interfere in the April 18 elections and to dictate their outcome."

Townsend Takes Stand

The peace resolution declared that "the militarists and monopolists preach that war is inevitable . . . against a great ally in the common struggle" and that "responsible leaders are moving with calculated steps to militarize our way of life."

"Under cover of war hysteria," the resolution said, "political bankruptcy seeks to retrieve its losses, monopoly to maintain its profits, and militarists their dominance."

Dr. Francis E. Townsend, president of the Townsend Clubs of America, urged delegates to work for a national "cradle-to-grave insurance plan as the best guarantee against depression." Townsend told the conference he favored Taylor for the Vice Presidency be-

Hungry Chinese Watch Turtle Soup Go By

Nanking, China, April 11 (U.P.).—While hungry Chinese along the Yangtze River looked on, an estimated 100,000 turtles migrated downstream today after a light rain.

No attempt was made to catch them for food. Chinese rarely bother them, out of respect for their age.

Many Critics Back Revised Home Rule Bill

Citizen Committee Urges Passage of Amended Measure

The Washington Home Rule Committee yesterday strongly urged passage of the revised Auchincloss plan for home rule. At the same time critics admitted changes in the bill had met many of their objections.

"Some of us may differ as to what kind of home rule we want," said Charles C. Glover 3d, chairman of the Home Rule Committee, "but no one can seriously urge that the people of this city should not be allowed to decide for themselves whether they want what this bill offers."

Addition of a referendum provision in the bill will put the issue squarely before the people, it was pointed out.

Of those who were openyl critical of some phases of the proposed plan at congressional hearings, several questioned yesterday termed the changes "distinct improvements." Other critics said they still were not in favor of the proposal.

The revised measure is to be

London Hints At 'Protocol M' Forgery Denial

London, April 11 (AP).—A Foreign Office spokesman declined comment today on a Genoa dispatch to the New York Times that said the British intelligence service had proved "Protocol M" a forgery.

However, he called attention to the most recent official pronouncement on the document, which purportedly contains a set of instructions from the Communist information bureau to German Communists calling for strikes and disorders in western Germany.

That announcement, made by Minister of State Hector McNeil to the House of Commons January 21, said the British government "believes this document to be genuine."

Tass Lists Many 'Firsts'

Soviet Claims Airplane Born There 25 Yrs. Before Wrights'

London, April 11 (U.P.).—The Soviet Union said today the world's first airplane was built in Russia 25 years before the Wright Brothers took their plane off at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903.

"We may state with absolute certainty both land and naval aircraft were first built in Russia, Tass quoted Academician Yuryev, chairman of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

Among the landmarks in aviation Yuryev claimed for Russia were:

1. The first airplane, built by a Russian navy officer named Mojaisky 25 years before Wilbur Wright and Orville Wright, generally credited with making the first man-carrying lighter-than-air craft, produced theirs.

2. The first small flying machine for studying the atmosphere, built by Kikhail Lumonosov soon after the middle of the eighteenth century.

3. The first ailerons, developed by Majaisky "30 years ahead of Farman."

(Henri Farman, a French aviation pioneer, made the first flight from Bouy to Rheims, France, and was one of the earliest airplane manufacturers.)

4. The first airplane with a steam engine, built in 1882 by Mojaisky.

5. The first super-heavy airplane, built in 1913 in St. Petersburg, now Leningrad.

6. The first flying boat, built by a Russian named Grigorovich.

Yuryev said many of these inventions did not find early widespread application because "throughout the history of aeronautics in Russia the Tsarist government blindly worshiped everything foreign and denied assistance to gifted Russian designers."

Quick End Expected for Coal Strike

Pension Accord Indicated Just Before Lewis Goes Into Court Today

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

A quick agreement on solving the coal miner's pension controversy—and therefore a quick end to the strick—appeared to be in the making yesterday.

John L. Lewis, union president and trustee of the miners' pension fund; Ezra Van Horn, the operators' trustee; and Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.), the newly-chosen third trustee, met for two hours yesterday morning. They scheduled another session for 8:30 a. m. today.

This is just 90 minutes before Lewis is to appear in District Court facing contempt charges.

But Bridges said he was "hopful we may make some progress" at today's meeting. And Lewis, concurring, said, "It is a reasonable hypothesis that porgress will be made."

Expect Dramatic News

Newsmen who heard them, and who knew Lewis' methods from long experience, were agreed on their guess of what this probably meant: A dramatic announcement, just at the last minute before the court convenes, that a settlement had been reached.

Throughout the 27-day work stoppage, Lewis has insisted that he had nothing to do with calling a strike. This is one basis for his contesting the contempt charge. Thus, to be consistent, he cannot "order" his 350,000 miners back to work.

But if a settlement is reached, he can state that his conntract with the coal operators is no longer being "dishonored." His statement, on March 12, that the operators were dishonoring their agreement touched off the strike. A contrary statement would presumably end it.

Arranged By Martin

Bridges, who was agreed upon as the third trustee at a surprise "peace" meeting in the office of House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr., Saturday, could not meet longer with the other trustees yesterday because of a New York appointment.

He flew to Washington for the meeting, and shortly after noon flew back again. In New York, he said that he hoped for a "tentative plan" which would adjust the pension dispute "in the immediate future" and end the walkout.

If an announcement of concrete accomplishment is made following today's meeting, it is probable that the miners will start going back to work promptly. The expectation that this would happen caused considerable speculation about today's scheduled court proceedings.

They will take place before Federal Justice T. Alan Goldsborough, who once before fined Lewis and his union heavily for contempt.

Three Petitions Pending

Three petitions are pending:

1. A motion by the Department of Justice for Lewis to show cause why he is not in contempt of a court order, issued April 3. It ordered him to direct the miners back to work and to stop permitting the strike.

2. A motion by Lewis to withdraw and vacate that order.

3. A motion by the Department

Kastel Falls To Arabs; 400 Slain in Week

Key Hilltop Fort To Jerusalem Road Has Changed Hands Often in Battle

Jerusalem, April 11 (AP).—Counterattacking Arabs tonight recaptured Kastel in an assault against the Jewish garrison there, the British Army reported.

Fighting still was going on in the hilly terrain where 100 Jews and 300 Arabs already have lost their lives in a series of bitter clashes. Heavy shooting sounded. The extent of the casualties in tonight's fighting was not known.

Kastel, a key hilltop fortress five miles west of Jerusalem, has changed hands almost daily for the last nine days. Haganah, the Jewish militia, had reentered the town only last night.

Commands Highway

Kastel and the nearby village of Deir Yassin command a section of the vital Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway. Ultimately the side which holds the highway likely will determine whether the 100,000 Jews in Jerusalem can remain unconquered.

The Jewish extremist groups, Irgun Zvai Leumi and the Stern gang, took Deir Yassin Friday and still are entrenched there. All Arabs and many Jews now describe the Irgun-Stern attack on the village as a "horrible massacre." A Red Cross check showed 254 Arab dead there.

The Arab Higher Committee called it a "massacre."

The committee's general secretary, Dr. Hussein' el Khalidi, made this statement:

"Deir Yassin, where this outrage occurred, is practically the only (Arab) village in the Jerusalem area which had not yet appealed to any Arab authority as being in danger of Jews. It lives surrounded by Jews and for four months has been living under an agreement of nonmolestation.

"In the early morning Friday they (the Jews) swooped in and practically exterminated women, children and old men. The only ones who managed to escape were the young men. After that massacre in which some 250 were killed by guns and grenades the remaining 150 women and children were dumped into trucks, paraded through Jewish areas, spat on and stoned."

Representatives of International Red Cross who moved into Deir Yassin said the 254 Arab bodies counted included those of 130 women and children. One hundred and fifty bodies had been thrown into a cistern.

The entire highway from Jerusalem westward now is alive with fighting men. The Arabs' Judean army has been disrupted by contention over a successor to Abdul Khadder Husseini, the commander who was killed a few days ago.

The Palestine government announced tonight that passenger train service had been suspended between Egypt and Paletsine.

The death toll in Palestine since the United Nations voted to partition November 29 reached 2751.

Conference Reported Off in Bogota With Americans Flying Out

First Planeload Reaches Panama; Parley May Be Resumed Elsewhere

(From Press Dispatches)

Secretary of State Marshall has given up hope of resuming the Inter-American Conference in Bogota, the first completely uncensored report out of revolt-ridden Colombia declared late yesterday.

Marshall's decision was reported by Milton Bracker, New York Times correspondent, who arrived at Balboa, Canal Zone late yesterday on the first of two planes evacuating American and other personnel from Bogota.

Reports through State Department communications channels quoted the conference delegates as agreeing their meeting will go on—in Bogota if possible, elsewhere if necessary.

Delegates Issue Statement

Bracker said conference officials met with Marshall late yesterday and decided definitely to leave Bogota as soon as possible in the hope of continuing the meeting elsewhere, possibly in Mexico City, Havana, Panama City or Lima, Peru.

The State Department communicated the following statement from "top delegates:"

"Delegates to the ninth international conference of American States affirm the democratic solidarity of the peoples of the American continent and their common historic purpose to contribute in peace to the prgores sand welfare of humanity, and that they cannot be at the mercy of any transitory emergency occurring in any of their countries; and declare their absolute determination to continue the important work with which the governments have charged them until they have fully completed the task of the assembly for which they were convened in Bogota."

Army Transports Used

Most of the Americans aboard the first plane and another which arrived shortly afterward were women. Six other Army C-54 transports were being used in the evacuation move.

Even as the first planes arrived, the Colombian national radio broadcast an announcement that the government had called up new army classes to put down the revolt which began Friday afternoon.

Bracker reported that heavy censorship had prevented the story of the revolt from reaching the outside. He said the censor-free poll of correspondence, which used State Department communications, was obliged to avoid comment and interpretation.

Previously, two apparently censored radio reports from Bogota told of fighting still going on in the capital city of 400,000 and elsewhere. One radio report said the situation was growing worse and that the government was using planes to bomb rebel positions.

Martial Law Proclaimed

The new coalition government continued to announce that the situation throughout the country was under control although army patrols were still fighting snipers in downtown Bogota.

Radio Nacional Bogota announced that two Russian agents, "several foreign extremists" and a group of university students were arrested in connection with the seizure by revolutionists of the Daily Ultimas Noticias radio station, from which the revolution was proclaimed Friday.

Colombian troops were ordered to kill rioters on sight. Martial law was proclaimed throughout Colombia. A state of siege was

Defense Plan Would Create Thousands of Jobs in This Area

By Jerry Kluttz

The military agencies will need to hire anywhere from 50,000 to 125,000 additional civilians if the President's three-billion-dollar defense program is approved by Congress. A tentative schedule of new civilians is as follows:

The Army, 40,000; Navy, 30,000, and Air Forces, 20,000. This would total 90,000. But if Congress authorizes a 70-group Air Force, the A. F. civilian needs would jump up to around 25,000 or 30,000, and the Army's, presumably, would drop a bit.

In this city at the three headquarters, no more than 2000 new employes would be hired. AF, for example, are planning on no more than 500 additional civilians at headquarters.

But several thousand additional employes would be hired at the many military establishments in and near this city such as: The Gun Factory, the several airfields and camps, Alexandria torpedo plant, research and development laboratories, etc.

Frankly, no one can now say how many new employes will be hired by the military agencies at any place. The exact numbers will depend on three unknowns: (1) How much of the work is to be let out to private contractors; (2) how much money will be finally approved for personnel, and (3) how many qualified people can be hired.

The last "unknown" is worrying Civil Service and military officials. The labor market is tight, and people are shying away from Federal work for one reason or the other.

Of course, the military agencies hav ethe advantage over other Federal agencies. They can assign people in uniforms to do civilian jobs—and they have done just

Physician Denies Bombing Changed Japs' Hair Color

Tokyo, April 11 (AP).—The top doctor of occupation headquarters tonight challenged an American scientist's statement that the hair of some atom-bombed Japanese will grow in pale, coarse and curly.

"Too many people in the United States are making wild statements," said Col. Crawford Sams, head of the occupation public health welfare section.

Dr. Fred A. Bryan mentioned the hair changes in San Francisco Saturday. He was associated with the atom-bomb Manhattan project and now is a specialist in atomic medicine at U. C. L. A.

"We have not found a single fact to show that any Japanese has had a change in the color of his hair—or any other change of color," Colonel Sams said.

Reds Tighten Squeeze on U. S., Britain

Traffic to Vienna Is Virtually Halted From British Zone

(From Press Dispatches)

Berlin, April 11.—The Russians tightened their squeeze on the Western powers in Berlin and Vienna today, virtually bringing highway traffic between the British zone of Austria and Vienna to a standstill.

The Russians also asked that the British and Americans close their automobile aid stations on the Berlin-Helmstedt highway, the only road connection of the Western powers with Berlin.

The Americans agreed to close their station in two weeks. The British said they would reply later.

Official British sources said Soviet troops at Semmering Pass, a checkpoint about 90 miles from Vienna, demanded that auto travelers produce passports or identity cards with photographs, in addition to the four-power "grey" identity card.

American identity cards carry photographs, the British do not.

Last week the Russians requested the Americans to remove their radio range station for the Tulnn air base in the Soviet occupation zone of Austria.

British sources said Maj. Gen. T. J. Winterton, deputy British high commissioner, was delayed more than an hour at the checkpoint today. He was said to be making a personal protest to the Russians.

The Soviet move against Berlin highway aid stations tied in with increasing Russian actions to cur-

See Peril to Civilization

Negotiations With Moscow Urged by Atomic Scientists

Princeton, N. J., April 11 (AP).—Leading atomic scientists, warning of "the total collapse of our traditional civilization," urged today diplomatic negotiations between the United States and Russia "at the highest governmental levels."

The Emergency Committee of Atomic Scientists, headed by Dr. Albert Einstein, said "there are no serious negotiations going on anywhere in the world today between the United States and Russia." This is "dangerous to world peace," the committee said in a statement.

The committee long has advocated world government as the key to peace, and Dr. Einstein said today that "partial world government—without Russia—might convince the Soviet Union that she cannot oppose it."

He said a world federation might be based on the United Nations. He observed smiling, however, that this would be "a quantum jump."

The committee said in a statement that without world government there may be "a preventative war," or a two-bloc world with "eventual termination in war."

The committee said with the "collapse of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission discussions on international control, one of the most fateful events in history has passed almost unnoticed."

The committee said it was moved to speak out again because scientists have "a special position in the tragic situation in which mankind exists today. It is through the work of the scientific community that this great menace (the atomic bomb) has come upon humanity and now threatens to destroy civilization."

Bridges Once Charged Lewis Wanted To Become 'Labor Dictator of Nation'

Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.), all cordiality yesterday where miners' Bossman John L. Lewis was concerned, hasn't always been friendly toward Lewis.

In the past the Senator has referred to Lewis as a "labor boss who refuses us the right to work unless we pay him tribute."

In the fall of 1941 he was talking about a drive by Lewis for a Nation-wide closed shop system that would make Lewis "the labor dictator of the Nation."

Lewis apparently held no grudge, however. He, as well as Coal Operator Ezra Van Horn, approved House Speaker Joseph W. Martin's suggestion that the Senator serve on a board of trustees to administer miners' welfare and retirement funds.

Member Since 1936

Senator Bridges, chairman of the Appropriations Committee and member of the Armed Service Committee, has been a member of the Senate since election by a sizable majority in 1936.

At the time, he promised his constituents he would be "progressive and liberal" and would back New Deal legislation "if sound."

Apparently little of it appeared "sound" to him, for he soon became one of the most outspoken critics of the Roosevelt Administration, and in 1940 was an active candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

He was also considered a candidate for the vice presidential nomination in 1936, but the story is that Republican leaders feared the slogan "Landon - Bridges falling down."

Senator Bridges, 49, was born at West Pembroke, Me., where he was brought up by his widowed mother on their scraggy seacoast farm. He was christened Henry Styles Bridges, used his first initial for a time and finally dropped the first name entirely.

Taught in Bay State

He worked his way through the University of Maine, where he returned in 1935 to receive an honorary doctorate, and then taught in a Massachusetts school.

Subsequently he did agricultural education work for the University of New Hampshire, was secretary of the State Farm Bureau Federation, director and secretary of an investment company, and in 1939 was appointed State public service commissioner by Governor—now Senator—Charles W. Tobey.

Five years later, when most of the country was voting Democrat, Bridges was elected Governor. He was only 37, one of the youngest Governors in the Nation.

Senator Bridges, who married his present wife, the former Miss Doloris Thauwald of St. Paul, Minn., in 1944, has three grown children.

Tall, restless, energetic and confident, he still talks freely and fast with a down-east twang, and likes to work in his shirtsleeves. In dress he is smart but not "dressy" and inclines to a monotone of blues and browns.

Air Expansion, Draft Given Best Chance

By the Associated Press

Expanded air power—certainly. A limited draft of fighting-age men—probably. Universal military training—unlikely.

That was the forecast of Senator Edward V. Robertson (R., Wyo.), a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, yesterday on congressional prospects for new defense legislation.

A top-ranking Republican leader, who asked that his name not be used, agreed with Robertson's prediction that:

1. A big expansion of combat air power will be approved quickly. This probably will be the increase from 55 to 70 combat groups asked by Air Force leaders.

2. A limited and temporary draft of unmarried nonveterans between 19 and 25 will be written into law after some debate in both houses.

3. The long-range universal military training program will be shelved for the time being in orde to push the other two programs.

$50 for Those Enlisting

A group in the House is talking of writing so strict a draft law it would encourage enlistments to the point the draft may never be needed. For example, one lawmaker is proposing that pay for a buck private who enlists would be $50 a month as against $30 for a draftee. Deferments would be hard to get.

Both Senate and House leaders say they want to act on the military legislation as soon as possible, but they also say it will take from two to four weeks or longer before any part will clear Congress.

"There is almost no opposition to putting the air forces on a fighting strength basis at once," Robertson told a reporter. "This could go through both the Senate and House in a hurry if considered alone."

Robertson said the temporary draft faces a fight.

"It probably will get approval," he said. "But it may be restricted considerably. My guess is that it would take two months to complete registration of men from 18 through 30 years. Then some members of Congress will want to delay actual inductions another 60 days.

Both to Meet Today

Both House and Senate Armed Services Committees scheduled sessions for today to push the program which President Truman has asked.

Chairman Andrews (R., N. Y.) of the House Committee asked top officials of the State and Defense departments to open public testimony there.

Chairman Gurney (R., S. Dak.) also called a session of the Senate Armed Services Committee but it was to be held behind closed doors. He said that Secretary of the Army Royall would appear with General Omar Bradley, Army Chief of Staff.

Forrestal and Royall also were to appear at the open House hearing. Others listed there include Acting Secretary of State Lovett, Secretary of Air Symington and Secretary of Navy Sullivan.

Trustees Meet Today on Coal Strike

Harris & Ewing

EARLY CONFERENCE—Senator Styles Bridges (left), newly approved trustee; Ezra Van Horn, operators' trustee, and John L. Lewis, union president and trustee of the miners' pension fund, will meet at 8:30 today in effort to settle coal strike. They are shown after two-hour conference yesterday at which "progress" was made of Justice to replace the order with an 80-day injunction, as provided for by the Taft-Hartley Act, against the strike.

If the men go back to work today or tomorrow, the third motion will be academic. But regardless of any back-to-work movement, there appear to be grounds for going ahead on the contempt case.

For the temporary restraining order of April 3 ordered Lewis and the union to act "forthwith."

It was based on the theory that whether or not Lewis called the strike, a strike there was. And a strike is a manifestation of a union action. Therefore the union could be directed to call off the strike, and could be held responsible for not obeying the order.

No Move to Comply

Neither Lewis nor any union officer made any move to comply with the directions of the order. Therefore, it may be argued that from the time the order was served on Lewis, Monday, April 5, until the present, the union and its officers and agents were guilty of criminal contempt.

If the courts found this to be the case, heavy fines could be assessed against the union and even a jail penalty against Lewis.

At the Department of Justice yesterday, there was every sign of a firm determination to press the case against Lewis as vigorously as possible, no matter how quickly the strike ends. The attitude of department lawyers was close to that of a holy crusade.

Lewis, of course, may be expected to contest through all the courts. He has indicated his vehement enmity to the Taft-Hartley Act. He would like, no doubt, to be the union leader who first fought it down on constitutional or other grounds.

His immediate tactics in Justice Goldsborough's court, it was assumed, would be to try to delay a decision to the contempt motion long enough for a situation to be brought about in which all the miners were back on their jobs.

The political aspects of Saturday's surprise agreement on a third pension fund trustee aroused almost as much comment and speculation as the imminent end of the strike itself.

For two months after the previous third trustee resigned, Lewis refused even to discuss the appointment of a successor with Van Horn. Van Horn petitioned the District Court to appoint one. Lewis contested the move.

Done in 13 Minutes.

Then suddenly, in 13 minutes by the clock, the two men agreed in Speaker Martin's office on Senator Bridges. Then, for the first time in months, Lewis and Van Horn, with Bridges, held a trustees' meeting, followed by a joint press conference. And both on Saturday and yesterday, Lewis said it was "reasonable" to expect a quick end to the strike.

All this seemed to add up to a previously arranged agreement, almost certainly including the terms for settling the pension dispute.

It was learned yesterday that Bridges had been trying to participate in the situation for 10 days. One informed source said it was his understanding that Bridges was anxious to get into the picture ever since the fund was provided for by the union-operator contract last July.

17 Senators Seek New Setup To Replace Charter of U. N.

By the United Press

A move to scrap the United Nations charter in favor of an air-tight alliance against the threat of Soviet military aggression will be launched in the Senate today.

It faces stern opposition from Secretary of State Marshall and Senate President Vandenberg (R., Mich.).

The plan is sponsored by 17 Senators representing both political parties—about one fifth of the Senate membership. It embraces the most detailed scheme for a veto-proof alliance against aggression yet presented in Congress. And it calls for mandatory reduction in national armaments.

Both Marshall and Vandenberg are on record opposing congressional efforts to redesign the U. N. charter. Their stand is expected to doom any chance for enactment, but its sponsors believe the resolution will serve as a useful "sounding board" for discussion both within and without the halls of Congress.

Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) will sponsor the proposal with a Senate speech and news conference today. Major provisions for a revamped peace organization as set forth in an advance draft of the resolution are:

1. A new Security Council, comprised of 10 States, would be established with the United States, Britain and Russia to have a predominant voice with each nation holding two votes. France and China would be relegated to minor roles with a voting power of only a single vote.

2. The present big power veto over Security Council decisions would be waived in dealing with actual military aggressions. And the veto would not apply in punishing violators of agreements covering production of atomic weapons and heavy armaments.

3. The Council would establish yearly quotas on maximum production of warships, warplanes and heavy guns. Of the quota the United States, Britain and Russia would be given 20 per cent, China and France 10 per cent, with the remaining 20 per cent going to arm an international police force, comprised of volunteers from smaller nations.

4. The new organization would be open to Russian adherence. But if the Soviets and her satellites did not go along, the new charter would be enacted by a majority of member-states and a special quota of armaments would be authorized for participating states "to make certain that any outside state shall be unable to compete" with armament production for the member nations.

Wiley to Hold Anti-Spy Law Hearings

By the United Press

Chairman Wiley (R., Wis.) said yesterday his Senate Judiciary Committee will hold hearings soon on the need for stricter anti-espionage laws.

He wrote Attorney General Tom C. Clark that the committee would "welcome" his suggestions.

Wiley said his letter to Clark was prompted by reports that the Attorney General was considering a request to Congress for legislative action to plug loopholes in present spy-control laws. Clark reportedly feels that stronger legal powers are needed by the FBI in view of the grave international situation.

"I want to assure you of my complete readiness to cooperate in every possible way in protecting our national security from the espionage agents, particularly of potential aggressors," Wiley wrote Clark.

In a statement issued along with the letter, Wiley said "America must be eternally vigilant, particularly in this atomic age, against alien espionage and sabotage."

Wiley said his committee has no intention of going in for "witch-hunting or anti-Red hysteria."

"But we do believe," he said, "that an alien agent, with a suitcase of bombs, could obviously smash a public utility, a vital bridge, could spread fire through oil fields, and could perpetrate a thousand others acts of sabotage unless we take precautionary steps."

He said this country must not be a "sucker" in allowing aliens to "abuse the privileges of freedom," and added "that includes alien Ambassadors, with due respect to necessary diplomatic prerogatives."

Cuban Democracy 'In Fact' His Aim, Batista Asserts

Daytona Beach, Fla., April 11 (AP). Former President Fulgencio Batista of Cuba, today said he was emerging from retirement and reentering politics in his native land because "Cuba must be a democracy in fact as well as in name."

An exile for many years, Batista is a candidate for Senate in the June elections.

He said Presidential Candidate Nunez Portuondo should be elected because the Cuban Liberal and Democratic parties represent a democratic philosophy of the type conceived by the founders of the American Republic.

"The civil rights of all its citizens must have the protection of the state. No man should pay with banishment or imprisonment or his life for his political thoughts and activities," he said.

Medical Service Group Begins Caribbean Tour

An armed forces committee on medical hospital services left yesterday by plane for a tour Panama and the Caribbean.

They took off at 10.02 a. m., EST, and planned to spend the night at Key West, Fla., continuing to Panama tomorrow mroning, the Army said.

Hoffman Hopes to Designate His Top ERP Aides This Week

By the United Press

Administrator Paul G. Hoffman said yesterday he hopes to select his top assistants for the European Recovery Program by the end of this week.

"I shall be greatly disappointed if I don't have them by then," he said in an interview.

Hoffman returned Saturday night to resume direction of the $5,300,000,000 foreign aid program after a flying visit to South Bend, Ind., to wind up his affairs as president of the Studebaker Corporation. He will take a leave of absence from his company and will stick with ERP "for the duration." That means stepping down from a $100,000 a year job to one paying $20,000.

Has Definite Candidates

Hoffman's first task will be to select a deputy administrator, a "roving ambassador" to check on the use of ERP funds abroad, and a director of information. The Recovery program bill permits him to hire 25 assistants each at $15,000 a year and 75 at $10,000.

Hoffman said he has definite candidates for the deputy administratorship and for roving ambassador, but he would not give their names until he is sure they will take the posts.

Now on an "18-hour work-day," Hoffman is being aided at present by Wayne C. Taylor, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and a former president of the United States Export-Import Bank.

Borrowing Now

He said he is "borrowing liberally" from other Government departments in order to get ERP into high gear with a minimum of delay. So far, he said, he has had the "highest degree of cooperation" from department and agency heads when he begs, borrows or steals their personnel.

The present ERP staff of about a dozen worked through Sunday at temporary quarters in the old State Department building. Their most urgent chore is to speed up delivery of 21 million dollars' worth of food, fuel and other commodities to Austria, Greece, France, Italy and The Netherlands, the five nations in most dire need.

ERP Can Aid Free Information Flow, Benton Declares

Geneva, Switzerland, April 11 (U.P.).—William Benton, chief American delegate to the International Conference on Freedom of Information and the Press, tonight said Marshall Plan funds could help to increase the free flow of information in Europe.

Benton said the United States had prepared a resolution for conference consideration urging governments to ease the exchange and tariff restrictions on news, news publications, newsprint and presses as their currency position strengthens.

The resolution also is designed to open the doors wider to American news magazines and newsreels.

Jewish Agency Bombed

Monarchists' Rally Broken Up in Rome

By Czech Official

U. S. Policy Blamed for Party Merger

Prague, Czechoslovakia, April 11 (U.P.).—Minister of Industry Zdenek Fierlinger, head of the Social Democratic Party, declared today that the "pressure of American imperialism in Europe" caused yesterday's hurried decision to merge the Czech Communist and Socialist parties.

"The hasty rush of events was extraordinarily speeded up by the pressure of American imperialism on the whole of Europe," Fierlinger said in Pravo Lidu, Social Democratic Party organ.

"The violent intervention in Italy against a powerful wave of peoples democracy . . . the unleashing of a bloody civil war in Greece, accompanied by medieval cruelties . . . the support of bloody General Franco Spain and the attempt to revive the old German nationalism—all this is part of the great struggle of world reaction against socialism. The best intentions and plans of two great statesmen, Roosevelt and Stalin, have been ground to dust."

Fierlinger said the splitting of the world between East and West and the campaign of reaction against "economic democracy" were "evil influences" which led to the Communist coup in February.

The Social Democrats fulfilled their mission in helping to avert civil war, which the enemies of socialism were trying to unleash just as they had in Greece, Italy and Trieste, he said.

The first foreign correspondent to be expelled from Czechoslovakia since the Communist seizure of power in February will leave for England tomorrow morning. More expulsions are expected to follow.

Alex Collett, of the London Daily Telegraph, was handed an expulsion order yesterday. It said his continued presence on Czechoslovakian soil "might threaten public peace and order or the security of the state."

Police Use Clubs As Banned Savoy Emblem Is Carried

Rome, April 11 (AP).—Police swung clubs tonight on Monarchist heads to break up a pre-election rally in which the Monarchists carried the forbidden emblem of the House of Savoy.

Communist newspapers meanwhile printed new statements of alleged Vatican activity, and Palmiro Togliatti, leader of the Italian Communist Party, accused the United States of trying to drag Italy into a war with Russia.

The election is next Sunday.

Last night Rome police quelled street fights that flared when 5000 Communists attacked a rally of the avowedly Facist Italian Social Movement.

Togliatti, addressing a crowd estimated at 100,000 in Milan, said a rightist newspaper in Rome had published American correspondence to the effect the United States needs military bases in Italy for the eventual dispatch of planes loaded with atom bombs toward Russian territory.

Premier de Gasperi, the Christian Democrat leader, told an audience in northern Savona there will be no Communist coup de'etat after the elections.

He said that if necessary "I will hold the power by force" until the new parliament meets May 10 to elect a president.

De Gasperi spoke confidently of victory.

Communist newspapers in Rome published excerpts from a book claiming to reveal efforts of Vatican diplomats to link the United States, Britain, France and Spain in a secret offensive against Russia and Communism.

The Vatican newspaper printed a denial and the author, Virgilio Scattolini, was put in jail. Police said he had confessed the book was "the fruit of imagination."

[The United Press said the death toll rose to 13 when a federal police officer was shot to death at Pesaro as he tried to halt a cart loaded with illegal arms. Witnesses said the slayer was a known Communist still at large.

[The Communist-dominated Labor Confederation set up final plans for nationwide one-hour token strike tomorrow by its six million workers to protest the murders of 36 leftist labor leaders in Sicily, three of them during the current campaign.]

U. S. to Parade Power During Korea Election

Seoul, Korea, April 11 (AP).—The United States will demonstrate its land, sea and air might May 10 during the vital southern Korea elections, in an effort to dampen the ardor of any leftists bent on making trouble during the balloting, it was learned today.

Two U. S. warships will anchor in Korean waters. All American ground troops in Korea will be alerted. An aerial display is expected.

The two naval ships are about all the depleted Pacific fleet can spare right now. A cruiser will anchor at Inchang, the port of Seoul, and a destroyer will stand off Pusan, largest port in southeastern Korea.

The Communist-controlled radio in northern Korea has called on all leftists to fight the elections "until death." American authorities fear violence may be brewing.

The United Nation's Commission for Korea will observe the elections, at which a 200-member assembly will be chosen, and an effort will be made to establish a permanent Korean government.

Balloting will be confined to the American occupation zone. The Soviet Union has refused to allow the commission to enter Russian-occupied northern Korea.

War Potential Gain in Czech Coup Assessed

By the United Press

A House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee said yesterday that the recent coup in Czechoslovakia gives the Communists an area in central Europe that can support formidable armies and has "very great economic strength for peace or war."

Evaluating the effects of the Communist victory, the subcommittee said it was impossible to speculate on what the Communists plan next—whether they intend to sit tight in Czechoslovakia or move toward "seizure of Europe and Asia and early war."

It went on to say that the Communists had to move in Czechoslovakia because of the coming election, in which they would have lost ground, and "by the need to consolidate all Communist gains for the fight against the Marshall Plan."

Gandhi's Son Defies the Law

Capetown, South Africa, April 11 (U.P.).—Manilal Gandhi, son of the late Mohandas K. Gandhi, broke a South African law today as a memorial to his father.

The younger Gandhi followed in his father's footsteps in walking across the Natal-Transvaal border in violation of a law which forbids Indians to travel from one province to another without a permit.

The Mahatma first called the world's attention to the South African race problem when he made his famous march in South Africa in 1913. His son's demonstration of passive resistance today was a reminder that the situation has not been entirely solved.

Nine followers who had set out with Manilal were held by police at the border.

He said he asked police why they did not arrest him, too. They gave him an evasive answer, he said, merely telling him he would be free "to carry one."

Canadian Government May Face Test Today

Ottawa, April 11 (AP).—The Canadian government is expected to face a test of strength on the freight-rate issue tomorrow. Some members of Commons from the dominant Liberal Party are worried about the result.

The test will come on a non-confidence motion made by an opposition party, the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation, when the government declined to delay enforcement of a 21 per cent increase in the freight rates. The increase, authorized by the board of transport commissioners, went into effect Thursday.

The CCF is ready to fight a general election on the issue.

Siam Premier to Follow People's Will

Bangkok, Siam, April 11 (AP).—Premier Pibul Songgram, first anti-Allied wartime dictator to regain power in a defeated country, says the Siamese people can remove him from office whenever they want to do so.

"I am now a constitutional monarchist," Field Marshal Pibul said.

He said the government he plans will be "neither of the left nor of the right," adding, "but I am personally anti-Communist."

Pibul said that although the major cabinet posts have been filled, the new government has not been completed fully. Mon Chao Pridithp Devakul will be Foreign Minister, he said.

Denying any intentions of resuming the role of dictator in which he led Siam into the war on the side of Japan, Pibul said he will quit office at any time if:

He fails to lower the cost of living, if the people do not want him or if the military ask him to resign.

Faisal to Head Arabs' Fight On Partition

Lake Success, April 11 (AP).—Prince Faisal of Saudi Arabia will spearhead the Arab drive to kill the United Nations Palestine partition plan, authoritative sources indicated today.

The Prince will be his country's chief delegate to the special U. N. Assembly on Palestine beginning Friday.

The Security Council will make another attempt to draw up Palestine truce conditions tomorrow in an informal meeting at 10 a. m. (EST) in the United States delegation offices in New York.

The Council has scheduled a formal session here at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow for another round on Chile's charges that Russia helped the Communists of Czechoslovakia seize power in February.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, was said to have a 30-page speech ready.

The Union of Orthodox Rabbis of America announced it had urged President Truman to take immediate action for international trusteeship for Jerusalem and for recruiting a non-Palestinian force to keep the peace in the Holy City.

Cardinal Stritch Will Lead Prayers

Chicago, April 10 (AP).—Samuel Cardinal Stritch will lead a Tridium (three days) of prayers that the Italian people choose "pro-God" candidates in the elections.

The Tridium will begin Friday noon with solemn mass in Holy Name Cathedral and will close Sunday, the day of the Italian elections.

Cardinal Stritch is Archbishop of Chicago, the largest Roman Catholic archdiocese in the world, claiming 1,700,000 communicants.

Poles Speed Operations at Uranium Mine

Warsaw, April 11 (AP).—Poles are feverishly developing what their government regards as Europe's second largest deposit of uranium, a basic element of the atomic bomb. Russian engineers are reported to be aiding them.

A big mine is in operation in lower Silesia 62 miles southwest of Wroclaw (Breslau). The mine is said to employ 1200 men. The Poles have been exploiting the find since 1946.

The project area is closely watched and restricted. Two assistant United States military attaches, Lieut. Col. Frank Jessic and Capt. Nicholas Rudziak, were taken into custody April 1 while on an automobile trip in the region. Polish security police questioned them for several hours before releasing them.

Jessic of Beaumont, Tex., and Weirton, W. Va., is generally regarded as one of the best American intelligence officers in eastern Europe. He left Poland yesterday by mutual agreement between the American and Polish governments, a Polish spokesman said.

The Poles have labelled their uranium mine an iron ore project. Recently the name was changed from Krzyzatka to Kowary.

It is believed the uranium ore found thus far has been of a relatively poor grade.

The deposit was revealed November 27, 1946, by Professor K. Bohdanowicz, a Russian-trained Polish geologist.

New Yorker Tells Of Colombia Riots

Film Producer Says Youthful Mobs In Barranquilla Carried Red Flags

Miami, Fla., April 11 (AP).—Andre de la Varre, film producer of Croton-on-Hudson, N. Y., today brought out the first eyewitness account of rioting in Barranquilla, Colombia.

De la Varre, in Colombia, to make a wild animal film, arrived here early today aboard a Pan American plane, accompanied by his wife.

He said members of the mobs carried red banners as they looted, wrecked and burned many buildings.

"Most of them were kids," he said. "Some were only 13 or 14 years old. I'd say 50 per cent of them were 15, 16 and 17 years old—just kids. There were some older persons, too.

"They smashed windows and looted shops of knives, machetes and other metal. They went through the whole business district. All business was suspended. They burned the cathedral.

"They mobbed La Prensa (a newspaper), wrecking and burning the plant. They took typewriters and adding machines and smashed them.

"A man was shot to death at La Prensa. He was too insistent on going back into the building and police shot him. His body lay on the sidewalk.

"We drove through the poorer section en route to the airport at 2:30 p. m. yesterday and saw mobs in the streets. Cars were still moving in the better residential districts and things were quiet there. That part of the city was still open."

Reds Tighten Squeeze on U. S. and Britain

tail traffic between Berlin and the western zones.

The British and Americans already have halted passenger-carrying military trains to and from Berlin because of new Soviet inspection demands.

The Russians have asked withdrawal of maintenance men on western Allied communications wires leading through the Soviet zone to Berlin.

They have moved to curtail aircraft flights by proposing a ban on commercial airliners, night flying and instrument flying between Berlin and the western zones.

Speculation increased as to whether the Russians were contemplating staff changes in Germany. Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky still was reported absent from Berlin. One eastern European source here said he had definite knowledge, unconfirmed elsewhere, that Sokolovsky had been called to Moscow.

"Marshal Sokolovsky is a big man today, but tomorrow—who knows?" this source added.

Ten seats had been reserved for Russians at today's services for victims of a British-Russian plane crash. The only Russian who arrived was described as a Captain Smurov, a liaison officer in the protocol section of the Allied secretariat here.

Berlin, meanwhile was told by Otto Grotewohl, cochairman of the Communist - controlled Socialist Unity Party, to get ready for "the next step."

This, he said, was "the creation of a draft constitution for the united democratic German republic."

Grotewohl said lists for a plebiscite in all Germany on the question of whether the people wanted a unified republic would be ready "in a few weeks."

The poll would be conducted by the Communist-inspired "People's Congress." The Congress is not authorized in the western zones and how the poll would be conducted there was not explained.

At Vienna, Foreign Minister Karl G. Gruber called for a speedy end to the occupation of Austria.

However, he said Austria "will never sign a treaty that does not leave us an army sufficiently strong to protect our country against internal adventurers."

Schuman Promises France's Cooperation

Paris, April 11 (AP).—Premier Robert Schuman said today France will cooperate with the Americans and British in a three-power administration of Germany if the four-power government break down.

Schuman also reiterated French determination to stay in Berlin.

Bogota Parley Off, Americans Flying Out

declared and constitutional guarantees abrogated.

Snipers made it impossible to remove all bodies from the streets of Bogota. The dead numbered 300 at last count, with many unaccounted bodies scattered over the city.

It was reported that the Colombian government, headed by Conservative President Mariano Ospina Perez, had appealed to the Inter-American Conference to remain.

Argentina to Leave

The Argentine delegate, Saverio Valenti, said, "The Argentine delegation is going to get out of here regardless of what happens."

Secretary Marshall late yesterday asked for planes to evacuate American and other personnel.

His decision was reported based on the growing food shortage and chaotic conditions in Bogota. All conference records were reported destroyed when rioters wrecked the capitol building Friday.

The revolt was touched off by the assassination of Liberal Party Presidential Candidate Jorge Eliecar Gaitan. His funeral had been set for yesterday afternoon but was reported postponed in fear of renewal of violent fighting. Eight days of national mourning was proclaimed.

Earlier it was reported that all Americans in Bogota had been removed to places of safety and were being guarded by Colombian troops.

Late yesterday NBC Correspondent James Christie reported from Bogota that Communists had refused to accept the new coalition government set up by Conservatives and Liberals and were carrying on resistance.

Map shows location of Bogota, Colombia

A British Broadcasting Corporation transmission late yesterday reported the situation was growing worse and told of the bombing of rebel positions.

Except for Bracker's story from Panama and a few radio reports, news of the situation was still comwing thruogh State Department communications. Dispatches described chaotic cnoditions, looting, shooting, burning of churches, and a general strike which paralyzed transport, communications, light and power.

The army took over distribution of meat and milk in Bogota as food shortages threatened. The general strike cut off all public services.

Drink - maddened vandals swarmed from the wrecked center of Bogota to the suburbs, forcing Assistant United States Secretary of State Norman Armour and other officials to take refuge in El Nogal Building highest in Bogota.

Priests, their churches burned and sacked, moved about Bogota, administering last rites to victims of the revolution.

Reports from consuls in other Colombian cities received by the State Department pieced out a picture of arson, looting and other violence.

The reports included:

Cartagena: "Small scale rioting." Two newspaper plants sacked and burned in early rioting. Local government functioning again.

Medellin: All quiet, after "unrestrained looting and burning" Friday night and Saturday. Catholic University fired by rioters, but flames extinguished.

Barranquilla: A mob of 2000 armed with clubs and machetes roamed the streets until late Friday night, looting shops and stoning homes. Property damage estimated at 500,000 pesos (about $280,000). Nine ships, including Grace liner Santa Marguerita were standing off shore at the entrance to the city's bay. Another U. S. vessel, the Santa Isabel, already was in port but its officers ordered all American seamen to stay aboard.

President Ospina Perez denounced the violent revolt as a "shameful" page in Colombia's history, and an "outrage which washed away a hundred years of historical accomplishments."

He called on "all decent citizens" to stop "this fight of barbarism."

Ospina Perez, Conservative Party leader who continues in office, renewed his charge that Communists instigated the revolt.

He broadcast that he had learned "from reliable sources that foreign national Communist agents are not disassociated with these events."

The Conservative National Committee, in another broadcast, blamed the revolt on "professional agitators with express orders from Moscow."

It said the assassination of Gaitain was engineered by Communists.

T-E-W Bill Debate Is Slated This Week

Senator Taft to Call Up Housing Measure Thursday or Friday if Nothing Prevents

By The Associated Press

The freshly dusted and hotly contested Taft-Ellender-Wagner long-range housing bill is due to come off a Senate shelf for debate this week.

Senator Tobey (R., N. H.) told a reporter yesterday that Senator Taft (R., Ohio) had promised him the bill would be called up Thursday or Friday unless something unforeseen interfered. Taft is a cosponsor of the bill and is chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, which charts the order in which legislation goes before the Senate.

Tobey is chairman of the Senate Banking Committee. Last week it dug through a year's cobwebs to approved a batch of amendments to the housing measure, which is designed to encourage construction of 15 million new homes during the next 10 years.

The committee approved the original T-E-W bill on April 24, 1947. Backers have been trying ever since to get it up for debate. Their efforts have been on the cautious side because of doubt as to what the bill's fate would be in the House.

The Senate passed a similar housing measure in 1946. It found its way to a deep grave in the House Banking Committee, mainly because of opposition there to a section providing for public housing.

Third Party Convention Set

cause he is "not controlled by big business."

The condemnation of U. S. activities bearing upon the Italian election was contained in a message cabled to the heads of six political parties in Rome, the house of deputies and the Comitato per la Tregua.

The message urged the Italian people "to vote for the candidates of their free choice and not to yield to coercion or intimidation."

It said, "we repudiate our Government's threat to cut off food from Italy unless the election results please it. Hungry children must not go unfed because their parents do not vote as ordered from abroad." The message indorsed "the Wallace plan for international aid through the United Nations to all needy peoples regardless of their political beliefs."

The peace resolution, presented by Mrs. Lawrence D. Steefel of Minneapolis, Minn., called for defeat of draft and universal military training legislation, a halt to "wasteful" arms expenditures and a stop to "the militarizing of our science."

Wallace En Route To Ill Mother

Chicago, April 11 (U.P.)—Henry Wallace left Chicago today for Des Moines, where his mother is seriously ill.

A Wallace aide said Mrs. Wallace was in her 80s and had been ill for some time. Wallace left in answer to an emergency call, the aide said.

Red Star Applauds Wallace Movement

Moscow, April 11 (NYHT)—Red Star, the Soviet army's publication, warmly applauded today the third party presidential campaign for Henry Wallace as part of a broader movement in the United States "to widen and solidify the front of progressive forces."

Midwest Democrats Back Truman, Ask Dixie Do Same

party principles and select a nominee to lead our party to victory.

"We ask that they hereby pledge themselves as we hereby pledge ourselves to accept th result and unite behind our platform and candidates for the good of our counrty and party."

States Represented

States represented at the conference were Kansas, Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa. There were none present from Colorado, Missouri, Wyoming, Montana and Oklahoma.

The resolution indorsing the President praised him for doing "what he believed best for all of the people" in spite of political consequences. It said Mr. Truman had faced up to many problems which "self-seeking politicians hate to act upon in an election year."

The group cited his antiinflation measures, his civil rights program and his tax cut veto as cases in point. It said he had also refused to yield to the political bait of "a cut-price peace that ignores the realities of the world situation."

"We are aware," the resolution said, "that our President has been attacked for doing what is right. But we say that it is those who attack the President for doing what is best for all the Nation who are wrong, not the President."

Termed Menace to Peace

In the discussion leading up to the resolution, nearly all of the Midwest leaders smacked sharply at Henry Wallace. Mrs. Clarence L. Clark, Nebraska national committeewoman, called Wallace "the greatest menace to peace in the country today." Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark, Kansas national committeewoman, also called him a "menace" but said he "will cut no ice in my State."

But the political ups and downs of Mr. Truman, and particularly his recuperative powers, formed the central theme of the closed morning huddles and less obviously so of the open session.

"I look for a tremendous upsurge of Mr. Truman's popularity before and after the Republican Convention, which will be no pink tea," E. Cyril Bevan, Michigan national committeeman, told the meeting.

More told reporters he recognized Mr. Truman's present low political ebb, "but in 90 days he'll be a hero."

Harold Barker, Minnesota national committeeman, said Democratic fortunes "are always low in the spring—that was true in 1940 and 1944 under Roosevelt."

Roosevelt's words, "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself," were recalled by South Dakota National Committeeman Eugene Mahoney to cheer the gathering.

The Midwest Democrats also warmed themselves over the fire of Republican differences. They adopted a resolution which said, "The irreconcilable disagreement between the opposing (GOP) candidates all of whom claim to speak the leadership of the Republican Party is greater than their disagreement with President Truman."

Dewey, Taft Pact Reported 'Absurd'

McGrath's Statement in San Francisco Ridiculed by Senator Butler of Nebraska

Omaha, April 11 (AP).—A Democrat's assertion that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Senator Robert A. Taft have agreed to pool their strength at the GOP national convention was labeled as "absurd" today by Senator Hugh Butler (R., Nebr.).

Butler told a reporter he is sure "there is no truth at all" to the report voiced in San Francisco by Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath that the two presidential contenders have agreed to throw their delegates to whichever is the stronger in presidential nominating tests.

"That's absurd," declared Butler, who is managing Taft's campaign in Nebraska's popularity primary voting next Tuesday. Dewey and five others are entered along with Taft in the contest.

"There isn't any deal," Butler continued. "Bob Taft is in this fight to win and I am very confident that he's going to do just that next Tuesday. It will be a close, hard fight but I think Taft has the stuff to win."

Butler has been blasting away at what he calls an "invasion" of the State by friends of Harold E. Stassen, including Senators McCarthy (R., Wis.), and Thye (R., Minn.) and Gov. Luther Youngdahl of Minnesota.

Dewey made no direct reference to Stassen in a three-day tour of the State ending last night. But his lieutenants told newspapermen they think Stassen—not Taft—is the man to beat in Nebraska. The opinion among politicians here is that Dewey and Taft will cut into the same vote to some extent.

Dewey, flying home to New York, was reported "bullish" on his chances in the Nebraska primary.

The New York Governor's stake is greatest in the Tuesday voting. For months he had been touted as the front runner in the GOP presidential circus until he was flattened in the Wisconsin primary.

Dewey's backers could shrug that off as a freak performance if he tops the list in Nebraska. He then would be in a good position to cut Stassen down to size in the May 21 Oregon primary. They are the only two entrants there.

Stassen, already promoted to the front rank of contenders by his Wisconsin victory, could get an invaluable boost out of a win here.

The Republican Doubting Thomases who have been inclined to discount somewhat his Wisconsin showing admit they then would have to recognize that Stassen is a real threat to grab the nomination in a convention where their strength will be much more widely divided than appeared likely earlier.

Taft's stake in the outcome is large, but is not regarded as decisive. If he can top the vote totals, he will clear one of the biggest political obstacles facing the Taft camp. It consists of the widespread comment that Taft is a good man but can't win in a popular vote outside of Ohio.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R., Mich.) might emerge with most of the laurels from this primary, no matter who wins it. Vandenberg, who repeats he isn't a candidate and discourages those who want him to run, needs only to place fourth to be hailed as something of a vote-getting wonder. Any such showing by him might be looked upon as indicating that if he had been an active candidate he might have won.

Gov. Earl Warren of California and House Speaker Joseph Martin of Massachusetts haven't much at stake here.

Warren will have his favorite-son backing of 53 California votes—possibly plus some outside support—at the convention. He remains available as a dark horse as long as he wants to keep that role or until some convention break comes that might offer him a real chance at the nomination.

Martin is in the dark-horse class. But his intervention in the coal strike has increased interest in him here.

President's Record Praised by McGrath

By The Associated Press

Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.), chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said in a statement yesterday observing the third anniversary of the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt, that President Truman has carried out the Roosevelt program.

He said the ideals of Roosevelt and the Democratic Party are today under "bitter challenge from the far right and far left." But, he added, the country hasn't done so bad since the end of the war. There have been "magnificent accomplishments" in the face of staggering odds.

New Movement Started To Back MacArthur

Chicago, April 11 (AP).—A new movement to promote the candidacy of General MacArthur for President today sought to organize veterans in 11 States.

Robert L. Brookman of Chicago, a Navy veteran, said he was national chairman of the veterans for MacArthur and had appointed 10 State chairmen including Bentley Hite, Christianburg, Va.; and, Charles McGaha, Knoxville, Tenn.

ADA Demands Way for Draft of 'Ike' or Douglas

Pittsburg, April 11 (AP).—Americans for Democratic Action today called for an open Democratic convention and said the Nation has a "right" to call upon men like Dwight D. Eisenhower and William O. Douglas for the Presidency.

Referring to General Eisenhower's reiteration yesterday that he would not accept a presidential nomination, the ADA said in a statement:

"No persons qualified for Democratic leadership can enjoy the privilege of declaring himself unavailable in this hour of the Nations' need."

General Eisenhower, ADA said, "has the confidence of the American people more than any man in public life. His very personality unites those qualities of patience and firmness which ADA believes to be indispensable to our dealings with Russia."

Of Supreme Court Justice Douglas, ADA said, "he is a tested liberal who stood shoulder to shoulder with Franklin D. Roosevelt on the forging of the New Deal. Under his leadership we could expect the cause of liberty and economic justice to be secure in American."

Taft and Reuther Debate Living Standard Problems

By The Associated Press

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) yesterday advocated wage increases in some industries during a sharp economic debate with Walter Reuther, president of the CIO United Automobile Workers.

They joined in a give and take argument about "How the American standard of living be improved," broadcast over CBS.

Reuther said Taft has been advocating the same economic policies followed by former Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover, adding that these got the country "into the worst economic jam in the world."

Taft said Reuther is "advocating the socialistic theory" that would result in a lower standard of living. The best solution to present difficulties is increased production, Taft argued.

Reuther said expanded production was only part of the answer. He said more important is "balance between purchasing power and production."

They agreed that some profits and some prices are too high but they differed widely upon cures.

Reuther asked for a return of Government price control and said he prefers a cut back in prices to another or "third round" of wage increase.

Taft said Government price controls would not work in peacetime.

"I think profits are too high but profits go up and down," he said, adding that for five years in the 1930's there were no profits . . . There is no doubt that wages should be increased in some industries but the increases should be based on increased production."

Candidates Seen Bound By Party Oath

Richmond, Va., April 11 (AP).—It appeared today that all Democratic candidates in Virginia would be required to take the party oath as usual this year.

Mayor Horace Edwards of Richmond, State Democratic chairman, has written Martin A. Hutchinson, leader of the State's "anti-machine" Democrats, saying that unless the Virginia pary convention provides otherwise all Democratic candidates will be required to take the oath.

Hutchinson, who asked Edwards for a ruling on the "party pledge" on April 5, promptly declared that the chairman "hedged" in his reply. He said the letter was silent on the subject of supporting Democratic nominees of the forthcoming national convention for President and Vice President.

Eleventh-Hour Retreat

John L. Lewis has pulled another "fast one" by agreeing to accept Senator Bridges as the neutral trustee on the board of the miners' pension fund. Mr. Lewis' action runs true to form; he has given the public another demonstration of his power and versatility as an economic saboteur and is now seeking to avoid the imposition of penalties for contempt of court by a tardy display of reasonableness. We trust he will not get away with it, and that the contempt proceedings against the UMW and its officers will be prosecuted vigorously, even if the miners return to work. Otherwise Mr. Lewis will be confirmed in his belief that coercion is the best kind of bargaining weapon and will be encouraged to return to his wrecking tactics at a more propitious time.

We have repeatedly pointed out that the Taft-Hartley Act does not prevent strikes in vital industries such as mining. All it does is to provide temporary injunctive relief in the hope that a voluntary settlement of disputed issues will be reached before the injunction expires. Hence it has become imperative to devise some legal method for insuring peaceful collective bargaining in industries in which an interruption of work constitutes a threat to the welfare of the entire Nation. Unless that is done, paralyzing strikes will continue to tie up large segments of industry and create conditions inimical to the survival of our system of free capitalistic enterprise. To avert that catastrophe it is essential to strengthen our labor laws by giving the Government the power to enforce peaceful settlements of disputes of this character.

Of course, there is no device known to man that would guarantee avoidance of open conflict under all conceivable conditions. Nor is there—and of course there should not be—any means of compelling an individual to continue working when he wants to quit. But it is possible to apply official coercion to recalcitrant labor leaders and employers who act in concert to tie up industries "affected with a public interest." It might be done, as we have often suggested by giving the Government seizure powers over struck plants and establishments or by applying the antitrust laws to labor unions, or by setting up a system of compulsory arbitration, under which awards would be enforceable against unions and employers by the courts.

These extreme methods would be applicable only in disputes constituting a threat to national welfare and to invoke them would entail no coercion of individual workers. They would be directed solely against concerted action to stall industrial operations. If the Government possessed such reserve powers to end strikes which stop production of vital goods and services, we believe that employers and employes would be much more disposed to settle their difference through peaceful bargaining, knowing that an open breach would lead to Government intervention.

Family Life Test

The age-old question, "Can the family survive?" is being asked again as plans are made for a national conference on family life to be held at the White House next month. This question is always asked in alarm after wars and in times of social and economic change. In fact, some cynics have asked, "When has the family not been pictured as on the way out?" We must recognize, however, that things look especially dark for the family now. It is threatened by the highest rate of divorce in the Nation's history, by growing child delinquency, by lack of religious faith, by inadequate housing, by economic forces that upset traditional family organization, and by the social effects of a long-range armament program.

We do not think all this means that the family's survival is at stake—it has long proved itself too lusty an organism for that—but it does mean that the family is meeting a great test of adaptability to the tremendous change going on in the world. Seldom in history has it been up-driven by so many revolutionary forces. That is why the stock-taking and planning that the White House Conference will provide are so greatly needed now.

This conference called by President Truman is backed by 125 organizations whose members include doctors, psychiatrists, social workers, homemakers, teachers, churchmen, businessmen, and other representative citizens. In preparation for the conference, specialists in education, health, home management, housing, social welfare, have been studying family needs and problems and will present the results of their study for discussion and action. No one can expect a complete blueprint for the family's future to come out of this, but it is hoped that from the conference will come plans by which the school, the church, special agencies, communities and the government can strengthen the family and help it to conserve its basic values as it adjusts itself to a new world.

New Home Rule Bill

The latest transformation through which the Auchincloss bill has gone has brought a number of improvements. It is evident that the House subcommittee which has the bill in charge gave thoughtful attention to the advice offered in the recent hearings and modified this proposed charter for the District with the object of eliminating objections. That is excellent strategy. As the bill goes before the full District Committee and the House itself, it will certainly be less vulnerable to attack than it was before. At the same time its enactment would, in our opinion, give Washington a sound and workable system of home rule.

The first change effected is a net gain of real significance. It provides that the people of the District shall be represented in the House by a Delegate, as are the Territories of Hawaii and Alaska. The Delegate could speak on the House floor and would be a most salutary influence in pleading the cause of the District among members of Congress and in committee sessions. Unfortunately, he would be a spokesman only. He would have no vote in the House. Voting representation for the District in Congress cannot be granted without a constitutional amendment. Pending a more complete grant of representation, however, we are confident that the proposed Delegate would be an enormously useful official.

Many citizens will be disappointed in the new fiscal formula devised by the subcommittee to measure the annual Federal payment to the District. We have always felt that the original plan of measuring this payment by the value of untaxed Federal real estate here, with some exceptions, was fair and reasonable. But Congress is fearful of adopting such a yardstick because of the strength it might lend to the claims of other cities for payments in lieu of taxes. In deference to that fear the Auchincloss Subcommittee has provided that the Federal payment shall equal 14 per cent of the District's non-Federal revenue for the previous year, up to 15 million dollars, with the cost of various specified Federal services to the District deducted and the cost of District services to Federal agencies added. This would give the District assurance of receiving from the Treasury at least as much as it is now obtaining. It is thus a positive argument for the home-rule bill, even though the formula is less favorable than that of the previous measure.

Certainly the provision for a referendum next November to give the people of the District a chance to accept or reject the proposed charter is a net gain. Even a home-rule system ought not to be imposed on the community without its express approval. The other major change requires positive action by Congress and the President to give effect to legislative measures, as distinguished from local ordinances, adopted by the proposed District council. The previous bill would have authorized the council to pass legislative measures which would have become effective in the absence of a veto by Congress or the President. Arguments in favor of the constitutionality of this procedure are very impressive, and we think the subcommittee has been unnecessarily timorous in receding from its first position. At the same time this change will make the bill less vulnerable to attack.

With the bill in this form, we wish the subcommittee had spelled out in more detail the municipal powers that may be exercised without specific approval of Congress. Many existing laws hamper the District Commissioners in administering the affairs of the city and they would continue to hamper the council after it inherited the Commissioners' functions. But the bill has the great virtue of giving the council clear power to pass and put into effect the District budget, without congressional interference, except for such advice as might be given through the proposed Joint Senate-House Committee. And the more cumbersome legislative device could doubtless be used to clarify and relieve of encumbrance the ordinance-making powers that the council would inherit. On the whole, we think the bill will command overwhelming approval of the people, and we hope that Congress will enact it, with improvements, as it progresses through the legislative process.

Silence In The Court!

Los Angeles and Brooklyn are, as you know, the two parts of the world where the most fantastic occurrences are commonplaces and only the normal or natural seems strange. The same thing, of course, is often said about Washington, but such an observation seems just only if applied to the weather rather than to the behavior of the inhabitants. At any rate, it was not in Washington but in Brooklyn last Friday that a group of deaf mutes were taken before a police magistrate and formally accused of "noisy and boisterous conduct." Even the magistrate, Mr. Francis X. Giaccone, presumable native to Brooklyn and inured to its ways, was mildly astonished when the defendants indicated by finger signs that they would plead guilty.

Testimony disclosed that the defendants at the time of their arrest had been playing blackjack in an apartment belonging to one of them. The complaint, according to the arresting officer, had been brought by other inmates of the house. Magistrate Giaccone, evidently a man of scientific mind, was not satisfied to let it go at that. He scribbled a question on a piece of paper which was handed to one of the defendants. The question was: "How do you know whether you were noisy or not?" The defendants, their fingers working busily, consulted together in some bewilderment. They confessed themselves unable to answer the magistrate's question, but made it plain they wanted to plead guilty anyhow. He had thus no choice but to fine them reluctantly a dollar apiece and close the case.

The magistrate said he thought the defendants were trying to prove that, despite their handicaps, they could be as noisy as the noisiest in a city where one must be very noisy indeed to attract attention. As far as we know, no blind man has yet been arrested in Brooklyn for violation of the peeping-Tom ordinances, but if such a case ever comes before Magistrate Giaccone, and the prisoner should follow the example of the deaf mutes and plead guilty to the charge, we hope the magistrate will reject the plea. This would be just the sort of case we should like to see tested on constitutional grounds by appeal to the highest court in the land.

Mr. Truman's 3 Years

It was inevitable that, in this season of presidential politics, the end of President Truman's third year in office should be marked by critical reviews of his record. As a candidate for renomination and reelection, Mr. Truman must expect everything he has done to be combed over in a spirit of partisan hostility. That is the American tradition. At the same time we think it is well to remember that the citizen who is sitting quietly on the sidelines, withholding his comment until November, is likely to take a more balanced view of the Administration's record and the circumstances under which it has been made.

Any candid observer in Washington will admit that President Truman has made numerous mistakes. Undoubtedly there is an element of truth in the contention of his Republican critics that many of these mistakes stem from Administration efforts to be all things to all men. Certainly the Wallace episode, the President's wobbly attitude toward tax reduction, the on-again, off-again policy toward Palestine and various other incidents suggest unfortunate attempts to carry water on both shoulders. It is unquestionably true, also, that the President's lack of previous experience in high administrative office has led him into various blunders that a more foresighted executive could have avoided. In foreign affairs especially his lack of familiarity with numerous delicate problems has been a severe handicap.

It would be grossly unfair to Mr. Truman, however, to view his mistakes and shortcomings in a vacuum. The first outstanding fact about his Presidency is that he came into office in a time of great emergency with virtually no preparation for the assumption of such a vast responsibility. From the time of his election as Vice President until he took the oath as President, he had no opportunity whatever to discuss affairs of state with his ailing predecessor. That, of course, was the fault of Mr. Roosevelt rather than Mr. Truman. Picking up the reins of office from a man who had dominated the executive branch of the Government for more than 12 years in a personalized manner, without so much as an inkling as to some of the commitments that had been made, the Truman Administration began under a handicap that it has never been able entirely to overcome.

One other fact that should not be forgotten is that Mr. Truman's three years in the White House have been beset by colossal problems. That was an unavoidable inheritance from the world's worst war. Mr. Truman is now accused of muddling because he sought to make a just peace with the Russians and, having failed, launched a policy of aiding friendly democratic countries to resist aggression from Moscow. We doubt that any President, having the interests of world peace and our national security at heart, could have followed a basically different policy, although he might have brought to the administration of that policy more finesse than President Truman has demonstrated on some occasions. We think that Mr. Truman also deserves a great deal of credit for evolving this foreign policy on the basis of bipartisan support. A partisan approach might well have redounded to his personal advantage at disastrous cost to the Nation.

Nor should the President's key appointments be forgotten. When he has had a great office to fill, he has usually surveyed the whole range of possible appointees with an eye single to their fitness for the assignment. Outstanding examples are his selection of General Marshall to be Secretary of State, Fred M. Vinson to be Chief Justice, and Paul Hoffman to head the Economic Cooperation Administration. To be sure, this standard has not been upheld in making many lesser appointments. Some of the men by whom the President has been surrounded at the White House are notoriously lacking in the stature and judgment that ought to characterize presidential advisers. Perhaps it is the unevenness of the President's performance that has brought his prestige to the present low level. However that may be, the rank and file of citizens are not likely to forget that they have in the White House a President who, in spite of recognized limitations, is working earnestly and sincerely for their welfare and the welfare of the Nation.

A HEART IS NOTHING ONE WOULD KNOW

It is proud, that hurt;
That reticence, that discontent;
Outside snowy palaces
It rears its wolfish tent.
And here where light is music,
And company merriest,
Like a bat, the bitter heart,
Is midnight's honored guest.
There it skims, and whistles low,
Describing its doomed arc.
A heart is nothing one would know.
It hungers in the dark.

"Favored Tourists"

My attention has been drawn to the editorial "Favored Tourists," in your issue of March 29.

The sentiments therein expressed do credit to the writer's heart and, speaking for my compatriots, we do appreciate it. However, our immediate need for hard currencies is paramount and we make no bones about it. Our people are being made aware that we must export and that tourist expenditures are our greatest and most profitable export.

Following your idea, all that visiting Americans should do is to live in our hotels and use our public transportation. By far the most fruitful sources of dollar income to us are the purchases of our products and the use of automobiles, without which it will take us many more years to win our battle of the gap.

In spite of his many tribulations, the Briton still has a sporting streak in him. He is of all men perhaps the least envious of others and I assure you that there will be no resentment felt or expressed for the privileges we are gladly extending to our American guests.

Uniform Time

Uniformity of practice is a desirable thing. The reason we have so many highway accidents in travel from one city to another and from one State to another is because of the lack of uniformity in traffic rules and regulations.

Daylight saving brings in confusion and often much inconvenience since the railroads and certain localities do not adopt it. People who travel often miss their train connections because of miscalculations on the different time standards. A better plan would be to start work an hour earlier in summer time, and come home earlier, and not require everybody to change the time on his clock.

Parents who have children have to get them up before their accustomed waking time when on daylight saving time, and have a great deal of trouble to get them to go to bed in the evening when the sun is still in the sky and the day's heat has not abated. Daylight saving time disarranges the time schedules of the sunset in the calendars and of the tides as scheduled, and necessitates the getting out of new schedules just for the daylight saving period, which is expensive and inconvenient.

If a popular vote was taken of all employes and employers and parents with children to rear, we are confident that a large majority would favor a uniform standard of time throughout the entire year.

C. S. LONGACRE.

To me daylight saving simply means an extra hour for all to enjoy in the evening and to most the last hour or so of sleep undisturbed by glaring light. What is wrong with that, I can not imagine! Aside from this the whole collection of objections appear to constitute "much ado about nothing."

Negroes In The Draft

Ever since Phillip Randolph boldly and probably rashly advocated civil disobedience and what could perhaps be termed treason if we were at war, many writers have rushed to defend the loyalty of colored Americans. Apparently Randolph believes in the shock method. His threat to march on Washington at the height of the war brought about the FEPC from which millions of Negroes still benefit.

The general public must not take too seriously the letters being published attacking Randolph. They don't represent what the masses of Negroes think any more than Randolph's opinion is the consensus of colored people.

For those who think Randolph rash, we must remember that George Washington, John Adams and Patrick Henry were treasonous to England and would have been hanged as traitors had England won the war. To my way of thinking the most dangerous men in America today are the Southern politicians who are raising heaven and hell to deny democracy and civil rights to millions of Americans. The danger is the possibility that the masses of depressed people will become easy prey to the advocates of foreign ideologies who keep pointing out to Negroes the hopelessness of democratic processes in their struggle for full citizenship. Music In Hospitals

Reference is made to the article, "Music Helps Vets Carry Heavy Load," by Paul Hume, which appeared in The Washington Post of March 21.

I should like to express my sincere appreciation for the splendid way in which The Washington Post has told the story of the use of music in Veterans Administration hospitals. It is most gratifying to have the special services program of activities in Veterans Administration hospitals brought to the attention of the public in such an outstanding way.

May I take this opportunity to thank you for the fine cooperation of The Washington Post and its interest in the program of activities under special services now being carried on for the welfare of veterans in Veterans Administration hospitals.

Real Unification

The Washington Post campaigned effectively for unification. I think that pending legislation provides an opportunity for some more effective licks. The idea that our top military leaders should wait until several weeks ago before really beginning any effective consideration of practical measures for unification is appalling. The old-school-tie has a lot of gall to come to the country advocating a draft and UMT when it hasn't effectively put its own house in order.

The putting into effect of any draft or UMT legislation by the Congress should be emphatically conditional on the presentation of practical, detailed plans for unification, immediately. And the necessary interservice liaison and administrative organization should be required to be set up. That this has not yet been done in the present condition of the world is unthinkable. We won't have time later.

Transit Radios

The cat is out of the bag. All riders on the public transportation system in Washington are to have music whether they desire it or not, because the radio stations wish to sell commercial time, thereby gaining financially.

Whether or not I am in the 8 per cent minority described by the Transit News and the radio stations, I am entitled to ride on a public transportation system without listening to music which I do not wish to hear. This is particularly an infringement upon my personal rights when I have no choice but to ride about seven miles each day to and from my office by way of bus and street car. I have no control over this radio equipment as I have in my own home.

Will the radio stations pay my fare when they inflict upon me their programs at a financial gain to themselves?

Balanced Forces For The Crisis

Laidler B. Mackall's letter of April 6 is significant as a presentation of the standard Air Force argument that only by means of land-based long-range bombers can American air power overcome an enemy.

Mr. Mackall has missed the two points which all our military leaders have tried so vividly in the past few weeks to make: One, we face a world crisis today, and we must immediately remobilize to resolve it peacefully, or to win the war which ensues; second, wisdom calls for "a balanced force" which will enable us to defend against whatever an enemy brings to bear on us, and to serve as a structure on which to build the offensive force required to win the war.

It seems to me that both Mackall and, to a lesser extent, Diogenes (letter published March 28) ought to raise the level of their controversy to constructive efforts and pressures on the Air Force and naval aviation to solve the problems of devising and activating "a balanced force."

Not the least of these problems is to agree on the major premise: What kind of a war are we preparing for? The answer to this question brings in another force, namely, the Intelligence Force. Has it told the war planners (still another element!) what air bases are likely to be available to us 10 weeks after the war begins? Will we have England and Spain as advance bases? Or, will the boys fly one-way trips over the 3600 miles (nautical) from Labrador to Magnetogorsk?

Moreover, balanced air power will not include only jet-propelled aircraft and atomic bombs. In his preoccupation with jet bombers Mr. Mackall apparently forgets their extremely short range, and in discussing the relative vulnerability of land air bases he does not compare the effect of a bacteriological attack on them and on aircraft carriers. Nor, does he consider the lack of any opposing naval air force or the present nonexistence of very long-range enemy aircraft capable of engaging our carriers far at sea.

Fifteen years of flying experience, including a couple of years of testing jets, has taught me several things about air power. Two ideas may be helpful to Mr. Mackall. Air power is dynamic; it apparently has no frontiers, and only imaginative research and development in all the most plausible directions will permit us to maintain our lead in quality. Air power must be flexible and comprehensive if it is to be decisive. It must run the wide range from helicopter to atom-headed rocket, air, land, and ship based, and it must include troop-carrying Pioneers and B-36s as well as P-86s and F-9-Fs.

These are the reasons why Secretary Forrestal and the Joint Chiefs have authorized the Navy to lay down an 80,000-ton carrier.

Let's develop an armed force in dynamic balance which will confront the USSR with power and unity, and forget all this ancient gibberish about who gets into the act!

FOLK SONG: U. S. A.: The 111 best American Ballads, collected, adapted and arranged by John A. Lomax and Alan Lomax. (Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $8.)

It is one of the paradoxes of culture that the popular arts hold little interest for the cultivated until they are already dying, but at that point arises an intense eagerness to preserve as much as possible of the products of these arts. It is perhaps a manifestation of the spirit that Professor Toynbee calls archaism, which, he says, is characteristic of civilizations in their phases of decline. Anyway, for a good many years the Messrs. Lomax, father and son, went about the country discovering and recording its folk music with as much industry as the Brothers Grimm in collecting the German Hausmarchen, and with perhaps even more enthusiasm. Had the work been delayed for another generation, it is possible that a good part of this music would have been lost forever, for its oral transmission would require special conditions which no longer exist. The Messrs. Lomax say that the preservation of a folk song depends upon its appeal to children and that for this reason such songs are assured an immortality "not shared by any other kind of music." But it seems to me that if this were so, it would hardly be necessary to search them out among the older inhabitants of the more isolated regions. The truth seems to be that literacy has a progressively enfeebling effect on the memory, which indeed the Messrs. Lomax admit in another place, by saying that the collector of folklore must go "where book-learning is not."

This book represents the Messrs. Lomax choice of what they consider the best and most authentic of the innumerable songs to which they have listened. The Scotch and English ballads preserved in certain areas of the Appalachian country have been excluded on the reasonable ground that they are not creations of the peculiar American genius, and ballads associated with the traditional children's games have also been omitted, evidently because it is intended to deal with them in another collection. The selections are reproduced with piano or guitar arrangements prepared by Charles Seeger and Ruth Crawford Seeger, and this appears to have presented a rather formidable problem because of the difference between concert conventions and the musical idiom actually employed by the folk artists. Many of the ballads were quite unknown to me, and I dare say that not more than a third are really well-known to any but specialists, and of these perhaps ten—including Home on the Range, of which I confess to have had more than a surfeit—owe their popularity to the elder Mr. Lomax. They are grouped into a dozen categories; there are lullabies and other children's songs, courting songs, dance ballads such as Sourwood Mountain and Old Dan Tucker; war songs, including a somewhat bowdlerized version of Madamoiselle From Armentiers, fresh and salt water sailors' songs, lumberjacks' and miners' songs, cowboy songs, farm ballads, railroad songs, ballads about more or less disreputable characters such as the bandit Jesse James and the jealous prostitute Frankie, and spirituals and hymns.

In a good many instances the Messrs. Lomax give variant examples of the same ballad. This is of some interest in showing how folk-songs are fashioned. The general principle seems to be that the song is elaborated or altered both as to music and text by a succession of artists into whose hands it passes, and out of the great variety of versions thus produced the one acceptable to the largest number of persons survives. But apparently a ballad does not achieve a finality of form before it reaches the hands of a sophisticated musician and is arranged. As long as the ballad remains wholly in the realm of folklore, the Seegers explain, it "does not exist in any one of its variants, but rather in an aggregate of its variants." The process is illustrated by the pretty-well authenticated history of what is probably the most famous and certainly the most popular American folk song of the twentieth century. The original version of the ballad Casey Jones appears to have been devised soon after the tragic event it describes by Cornelius Steen, a Negro roundhouse employe of the Illinois Central Railroad, who borrowed generously from already existing railroad ballads. Another version, also incorporating fragments from previous ballads, was prepared by another engine-wiper, Willie Saunders. Soon there were a dozen or perhaps a hundred versions. Some years later two vaudeville performers T. F. Sibert and E. W. Newton heard the song in some variant or other and with some further emendations of their own had it published in what may be considered the standard version. This song also gives us some insight into the disparities of folklore and history. Mr. Jones, the brave engineer, was of course a historical character, and the wreck in which he was killed occurred in April, 1908; but by a cruel and perhaps irremediable injustice, the cynical and promiscuous attitudes attributed to some real or legendary character in one of the earlier ballads, were likewise ascribed to Mr. Jones' widow, a person of the utmost respectability who remained wholly faithful to her husband's memory. For this reason it was for long dangerous to sing the ballad within the hearing of Mrs. Jones' friends. They could not, as the Messrs. Lomax tell us rather smugly, be expected to understand that the final stanza of the ballad merely reflects "the Negro folksingers' ironic view of life."

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

The Two German Governments

LAST WEDNESDAY the British Military Governor, Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, addressed the Parliament of the German state of North Rhine-Westphalia, which includes the Ruhr. The address had been approved by Mr. Bevin and must be taken also as a declaration of what has now become our own German policy.

Lippmann

There is to be a German central government in Frankfurt, set up with Anglo-American support, which is to compete with another German central government, to be set up in Berlin or Leipzig, with Russian support. Both German governments will then claim that they represent the unity of Germany, and a contest will be waged by the two German governments to win the support of the masses of the German people.

ACCORDING TO this policy the Frankfurt government will, on the one hand, work for reunion with the eastern Germans, and on the other hand, it will administer western Germany as an integral and essential part of the European Recovery Program and of the Western Union. It would be easier to feel confidence in the success of the Anglo-American policy if it were not that for at least two years, and openly since the Molotov statement of July 1946, it has been the aim of the Soviet Union to make itself the champion of German unity under a German central government. Presumably the Russians would not have initiated this contest for German unity if they had not felt reasonably confident that it was a contest which they could win.

So we must hope that the British government, which made the present policy, and the American Government which has come around to it, know what they are doing, and have not committed themselves irretrievably without a very clear idea of how this struggle for Germany is to be conducted. They have had ample and repeated warning from Europeans and from Americans who know Europe and Germany and the history of German-Russian relations. Conceivably General Robertson is right when he says that "these are strange times . . . they have no parallel in history." But he would do well to bear in mind the saying that those who do not learn from the experience of history are doomed to repeat it.

When, for example, he told the Germans "to make the best of the largest part of your country which is on the right side of the 'iron curtain' . . . the rest will come in time," he was telling the Germans that "the rest"—that is not only the Soviet zone of what is now Germany but also the lost provinces in the east—will be restored to them.

By whom? By Great Britain and the United States? Or by the Soviet Union?

THE ANSWER to these questions is the crux of the German problem. No German can possibly talk about German unity, and not mean by that the restoration of most, if not all, the territory behind the front of the Red Army. Now what is the situation, then, of the Frankfurt government which we are dedicating to the restoration of German unity? Is it not that to get back eastern Germany it must either fight Russia or make a deal with Russia?

If the Frankfurt Germans ally themselves with the western powers in order to get back eastern Germany, they can get it back only as a result of war in which Russia and Poland were defeated. Germany would be a principal battlefield of such a war. On the other hand, Mr. Molotov is also offering them "German unity." Mr. Molotov, however, can, if he decides to do it, give them back the eastern lands. For he has them and Mr. Bevin does not have them.

So despite General Robertson's idea that these times "have no parallel in history," the parallel of the repeated German-Russian agreements from Frederick the Great to Hitler will inevitably occur to the Germans and to the Russians.

IT WILL be advisable, therefore, to begin thinking now how we propose to win this struggle between our German government at Frankfurt and the coming Soviet's German government in Berlin or Leipzig. We have now promised the Germans "unity." The Russians have promised them "unity." We have promised them the one thing which, without a world war, it is not in our power to give them. The Russians have promised them the very thing which only Russia can in fact give them. Russia can by a treaty of peace with its Berlin government cede back the lost territory. And then what would the Frankfurt government do?

Perhaps some one will explain, though no one has as yet, how Mr. Bevin expects to win this contest.

ONE THING, however, we can surely expect. The Frankfurt government, dedicated to German unity but unable to bring about German unity, will have to find some way of winning and holding the Germans against the obvious temptations which will be spread out before them by the Communists, the nationalists and the Soviet government.

Unable to achieve German unity, they will have to produce prosperity. But that prosperity will have to be subsidized by the United States. For it is unattainable if Germany is not reunited and if a reunited Germany cannot restore its prewar trade with eastern Europe.

THIS POLICY, which we have accepted on the theory that it will get Germany off the backs of our taxpayers, is in fact much more likely to compel our taxpayers to wage the struggle for Germany with more and more dollars. For having promised the Germans "unity," which we cannot give them, what substitutes shall we offer the Germans, except more dollars, for the political promise that we cannot carry out?

U. S., British Protests Rejected by Yugoslavs

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, April 11 (AP).—Yugoslavia last night rejected British and American protests against alleged incidents along the border separating the free territory of Trieste from Yugoslavia.

A note handed to both the British and United States Embassies said that charges Yugoslav soldiers have been firing along the Trieste border were unfounded. The Belgrade government made counter-charges, blaming shooting incidents of March 22 and 29 on "control organs of the allied military government."

Matter Of Fact

Does Russia Want War?

THE SOVIET VICEROY of Germany, Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky, is a burly, amiable man, surprisingly addicted to reading the works of Jane Austen. In happier days, he once confessed his fondness for "Sense and Sensibility" and "Mansfield Park" to Air Chief Marshal Lord Douglas, and asked the British commander whether Jane Austen had painted a "representative picture" of English life. His amiability seems to have led him astray last week, when he half apologized for the destruction of a Berlin-bound British transport by a Soviet fighter.

It is now generally accepted here, in fact, that he had his knuckles soundly rapped by the Kremlin, and was instructed rather testily to forget politeness and become as firm and as provocative as possible. Thus the Berlin crisis, which seemed to be temporarily at an end, is dragging deceptively and dangerously on.

At any moment, the crisis can flare up again into real acuteness. Nevertheless, Washington and London, Paris and Brussels, are breathing a little more easily. For a few days, it appeared possible that the Soviets were prepared to go to any lengths, not stopping short of war, to halt the reconstruction of western Europe. But the Finnish treaty is now considered to have changed the aspect of affairs.

THE NEW ACCORD between Moscow and Helsinki officially places Finland within the Soviet sphere. But the Kremlin wanted much more than this. The first demands were for an "alliance" reducing Finland to the status of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania in the few months before those nations finally disappeared. The tough Finns refused to accept any such status. The Soviet Union holds Finland, from the military standpoint, in the hollow of its hand.

Yet the reports do not even suggest that any of the third-degree methods were used to break down the Finnish delegates at the Moscow meetings. Instead, because there was a genuine risk that the Finns might resist if their internal independence was impaired, the Kremlin coolly accepted the Finns' own treaty draft.

This obviously significant Soviet retreat is weighed in connection with certain other evidence of a more obscure nature. One item is the state of the East-West transportation links across Europe. The bad dream of the West, that Russian troops will reach the English Channel in a few days, can hardly come true without lines of communication strong enough to carry armies to the Channel and maintain them there. The rail lines running through the Soviet zone of Germany would be the most useful for this purpose. These lines were the strongest transportation complex in eastern Europe. Yet reliable intelligence reports now indicate that the capacity of these lines has been immensely reduced by Soviet removal of rails for scrap. Another similar item is the fact that Soviet troop dispositions in Germany do not seem to indicate any intention of westward offensive effort.

SUCH IS THE NATURE of the evidence that the Kremlin wants no war. There is, however, another side of the ledger. Almost unnoticed, the pressure in Iran has been recently vastly increased. There are hints from Moscow of Soviet occupation of the north Iranian provinces, probably intended to frighten the feeble Hakimi government. Another Iranian crisis may impend.

In Turkey, the new Soviet Ambassador, Lavrischev, who is one of the Kremlin's chief Balkan operatives, shows signs of soon embarking on a campaign of bullying. The Italian election outlook continues to improve, but fears of a Communist-launched civil war have far from subsided. The Berlin trouble is going on as noted, and there is a threat of comparable trouble at Vienna.

Some observers believe that the Balkan satellites will give much more overt assistance to the Greek guerillas if the American-planned drive to clean up the guerillas shows any signs of success. And so it goes.

Therefore the official theory has been stated by one qualified to speak: "The Soviets do not want war now. But they are pursuing their tactics of maximum provocation and maximum pressure on all soft spots so recklessly and with such determination that the risk of war cannot be ignored. The risk exists, and that's all there is to it."

Such is the new stage of development. Under the circumstances, it is lucky that the Berlin crisis sent such a nervous shock through the capitals of the Western allies. It may seem incredible, but it is nevertheless a fact that the military staffs had not previously agreed on any scheme of joint or cooperative action in case of trouble. In the last few days, the Anglo-American combined chiefs of staff held their first really important meeting in many months. An emergency plan is being prepared. And in the offing are other, more long-range steps, such as a military guaranty for the western Europe union. When the Italian election is over, and these long-range steps have been taken, it will almost be time to breathe more easily.

Sumner Welles writes to the author of Appointment On The Hill

"It is really a great piece of work, and I offer you my warmest congratulations upon an exceptionally fine contribution to the history of our times. You have dealt in your book with some of the most notable problems of the last twenty years, and you have dealt with them in such a way that all who read can understand. You have also written with perfect clarity, with wit and great charm, and I have rarely read a book that held my attention more closely; and let me add that it is a real inspiration in the times in which we live to read an account of a life that has been dedicated in a very practical sense to some of the highest ideals of which our people are capable."

The high cost of

seeing your attorney

Businessmen are accustomed to having their contracts and conveyances drawn by their attorneys. They know that a document, to be good, must be legal.

Your Will—embodying your specific instructions about the distribution of your property for your family's future financial protection—is also a legal document. As such it, too, should be drawn by your lawyer and executed in accordance with the law under his guidance. The fee you pay for your attorney's services is money well spent, since a home-made Will—in which you might fail to express your wishes properly—may be worse than no Will at all in the way it may affect your family's future. Make no mistake—the cost of not seeing your attorney can be high!

In addition, Union Trust Company has learned, from long experience gained in the administration of estates of all sizes, that family changes, changes in the size and value of property and changes in tax laws can render a once adequate Will ineffective—if it is not kept up-to-date.

That is why we urge you to visit your attorney without delay, to make certain that your present plan for your family's financial welfare is the best that can be devised for your present situation. Otherwise you may fail in your intention to do as much as possible for your family with what you leave.

Home Rule Group Backs Revised Bill presented in the House today by Representative James C. Auchincloss (R., N. J.).

"If there still are people here who think Congress should not pass the home rule bill as amended," Glover said, "they must, in fairness to the people of this city, make plain the reasons for their opposition. Against the principal of home rule, the critics so far have produced nothing better than a sort of 'whispering campaign.' They have damned with faint praise, sniping at the fringes of something they could not openly and conscientiously oppose."

"Our group thinks this situation should end," Glover added. "The Auchincloss bill would give the people of Washington one chance —possibly their last—to accept or reject the democratic right to rule themselves. Obviously, it is better for us to make this decision as a community than to have it made for us by Congress—against home rule. Our committee confidently challenges any group or individual still 'sitting on the fence' here to debate with us publicly against this proposition."

Beattie Sees Improvement

James S. Beattie, president of the Junior Board of Commerce, who had testified for his organization at Congressional hearings, said yesterday he thought the subcommittee "has improved the bill. They have made most of the changes the Junior Board of Commerce's board of directors had recommended in its statement to the committee. As to whether they have satisfied the membership of the organization that they now have the bill they want, I can't say. The only way to be sure would be to take another poll."

Beattie had testified that his board of directors favored the home rule plan, but considered national representation indispensable to success of any form of representative government here.

John A. Reilly, president of the Washington Board of Trade, said yesterday that he thought the revised home rule plan contained two steps in the right direction—the referendum idea, and the requirement of affirmative action by Congress on local matters. He said that pending further study, he preferred not to comment on other phases revised by the subcommittee.

Favors Independent Board

Albert W. Atwood, president of the board of trustees of the District of Columbia Public Library, who had testified against inclusion of the public library under the public school system, said yesterday, "It is our feeling that if a change is to be made, we probably would prefer the library under the city manager (as it is under the revised bill) rather than the school board. A far better system," he added, "would be to have an independent board."

Brig. Gen. Gordon R. Young, Engineer Commissioner for the District, said yesterday he would not comment on the purely political aspects of the home rule plan, but declared the idea of fixing the annual Federal contribution to the District at 14 per cent of the city's non-Federal revenue is "much more equitable" than the existing scheme.

He said one revision, which puts the highway department under Public Works, is "regrettable" because he believes it will make that department top-heavy. "It would be sounder to have the highway department as a separate department," General Young said.

General Young, who said he "strongly favors continuation in existence" of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, added he still felt that the function of land purchase should be transferred to the District, as an administrative move, to save the NCPPC's time.

Commissioner Guy Mason and Commissioner J. Russell Young could not be reached for comment.

District Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West said the revised measure "definitely answers" the questions he had raised at hearings about legality of legislation adopted under the home rule plan. The revised bill calls for congressional and presidential approval of District-sponsored legislation.

West, who said he did not want to give an opinion on the general home rule idea, said the revised measure incorporated many suggestions which the District Commissioners had made to the Auchincloss committee.

Louis F. Frick, secretary of the Federation of Businessmen's Associations, Inc., said the revision had done "one very good thing"—It had provided for a referendum on the question of home rule. "That removes one of our objections to the plan," said Frick.

Jerome B. McKee, legislative chairman of the District of Columbia American Legion, said "some wonderful improvements" have been made in the plan, but that it still "is not what the Legion wants." He said the measure still does not provide home rule in the truest sense of the word, and that "For what we get, we surrender too much."

Organized Last Winter

The Home Rule Committee, a group of about 50 residents in professional field, which yesterday openly advocated passage of the plan, was informally organized last winter. Its members, in weekly discussion meetings, have satisfied themselves the plan is a good one, according to Chairman Glover, and the group has been an active leader in the home rule fight.

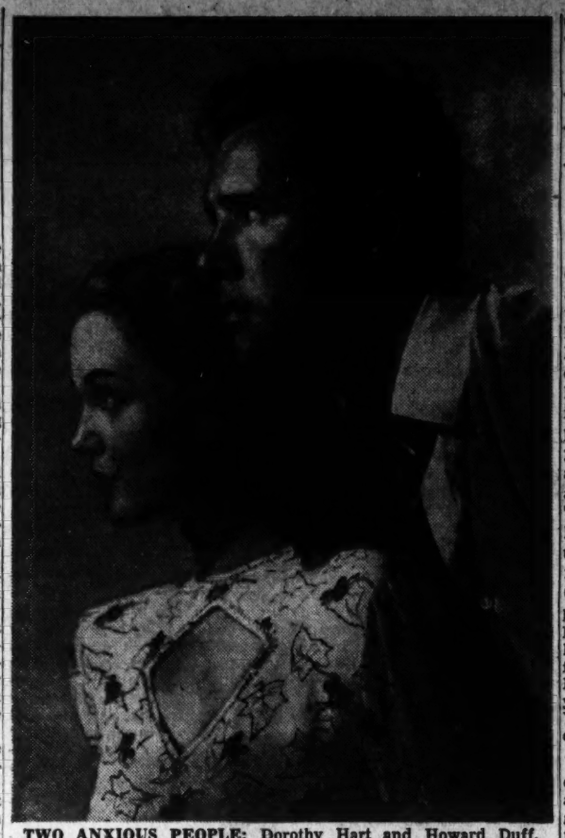
"We welcome the opportunity to vote on the Auchincloss bill," Glover said yesterday. "We think it is a good bill defending a basic principle. We do not think the people of the District will use their referendum vote to deny themselves the right to vote again. But above all we are sure they will not want to lose the chance which is offered to make this decision on their own.

Aside from the referendum provision, Glover said the committee felt the Auchincloss bill has been improved and strengthened by other amendments based on the suggestions of witnesses before the Senate and House subcommittees during the February hearings.

"The amendment requiring all candidates for municipal office to be domiciled in the District provides added assurance that members of the Council and Board of Education will have a substantial connection with the city and a real stake in its affairs," he said.

"The provision for a District spokesman in the House of Representatives, elected by the voters here, gives the fullest measure of national representation permitted without a constitutional amendment.

"Finally, by providing that legislative acts of the District Council become effective after a joint resolution of the houses of Congress and signature by the President, the framers of the bill have removed the last possible question of its constitutionality."



TWO ANXIOUS PEOPLE: Dorothy Hart and Howard Duff, who find themselves tangled in a murder in "The Naked City," at the Palace

Many Defense Jobs Indicated

that by the thousands. Now they'd like to get as many of these military people as possible in active service and replace them with civilians.

The three military agencies are all on the lookout for top-ranking civilians for jobs in management, scientific and professional fields. As our relations with Russia have worsened, a large number of former military people, both civilian and military, have volunteered to return to do their bit. It isn't generally known, but several former War Production Board officials are among those who are offering their advice to defense leaders on the q. t.

As a top defense official told me: "We wouldn't have a bit of trouble getting the people we need if war breaks out. We have offers—many offers—from outstanding people, but these people can afford to take Federal jobs. But we aren't getting the hard-driving fellows between 30 and 40 for the simple reason that they can't afford to work for the Government."

As I reported here Saturday, Civil Service has opened the door to direct hiring by the military agencies and the Economic Cooperation Administration. These agencies may now get the authority to hire employes for emergency indefinite jobs up to June 30, 1952. Civil Service will retain the right to require the employes who are hired to meet minimum standards.

CHEERS: I mentioned above that people are shying away from Federal jobs. And I must say that it's a great pleasure for me to report that Treasury Undersecretary A. L. M. Wiggins, I believe, put his finger correctly on this problem. What should gratify every Federal worker is the fact that Wiggins had the guts to lay his views before Congress.

In testifying before the Senate Appropriations Committee, Wiggins had this to say:

"I think that the contempt with which workers in the administrative agencies in Government are held by members of Congress in many cases has done more to destroy the morale in Government service than the limited salaries at the higher levels.

"I have found more discouragement in the last few months on the part of Government people, career men whose positions are assured, and who are not interested in the political side of things, than ever before because they have been made to feel that a Government worker in Washington is as a worm on the earth.

"I have never understood why a worker in Government here was regarded in so many places as being a tax-eater; as not earning his salt, and as working only six hours a day. At the same time many of the workers in the Government back home are considered to be all right. I cannot understand that viewpoint, and I can say to you in all sincerity that I think the morale of people in Government has been tremendously lowered in the past year.

"We have a lot of good men in Government, and we have got to retain those men. Government will never be any better than the men who run it. I have seen evidence of what I call the bleeding at the top of good ability in Government. These career men have become discouraged and too many have resigned."

Senator Cordon (R., Oreg.) broke in to blame Civil Service for this unhappy condition which no one can deny. He said that Civil Service "breeds inefficiency in the Government."

But who is this man Wiggins, who had the courage of a David? Well, he's an independently wealthy South Carolina banker and publisher. He's a former president of the American Bankers Association. He's been here a year and he's a human being who insists on his colleagues in Government and himself being treated as such—even by headline-hunting members of Congress.

I don't know, but I imagine Wiggins was good and sore about that half-baked report on Internal Revenue which was released by the House Appropriations Committee. That screwy report would have you believe Revenue employes were a bunch of drunks and loafers.

One on the Aisle—

And Clifton Webb Is NOT Kidding

By Richard L. Coe

SHADOW BOXING: "You don't mean to tell me you dance, too," asks Maureen O'Hara of Clifton Webb in the Capitol's amusing comedy, "Sitting Pretty." . . . "I do," icy Webb responds, "and I am a very good dancer." . . . The laugh this one gets is as the script wants it, but its even funnier when you recall that Webb probably has made more money from his dancing than such chaps as Gene Kelly, Fred Astaire and Bill Robinson . . . The youngsters are inclined to look on Webb as an aloof, sophisticated oldster . . . Heck, he's only 55 and you ought to meet his mother . . . Mabel Webb is a merry, shrewd soul who's always been her son's first-night companion . . . Clifton's stage debut was at storied Carnegie Hall as a youngster of 7 . . . He studied opera under the great Victor Maurel and his singing repertoire included roles in "Tosca," "Boheme" and "Mme. Butterfly" . . . Then he took to dancing and was the Tony DeMarco of the Ziegfeld Roof era . . . He starred in an endless list of New York and London musicals . . . His partner in the unforgettable "Sunny" was Mary Hay, who married Richard Barthelmess . . . And his routines with Marilyn Miller in "As Thousands Cheer" was the peak of his dancing days . . . It was in that one he played Mahatma Gandhi to Helen Broderick's Aimee Semple McPherson . . . Only in recent years has he dropped his dancing in favor of "The Man Who Came to Dinner," "Blithe Spirit" and last year's "Present Laughter." . . . Yes, when Clifton says he's a good dancer, he isn't kidding.

INGRID BERGMAN, the other day, was saying pleasant things about Viveca Lindfors, the Swedish girl who's become a star in her first American picture, "To the Victor," at the Warner . . . Miss Lindfors, La Bergman was saying, makes it quite a Swedish colony in Hollywood, what with Garbo going back to work as George Sand and Signe Hasso finally getting recognition as an actress in "A Double Life." . . . "Signe was a much more noted star in Sweden than I ever was," said Ingrid, "in fact, when I came to Hollywood everyone thought I was Hasso just because I was 'the new Swedish actress.'" . . . Miss Lindfors is enjoying everything about States, the California climate, the friendly informality she's found, everything, that is, except avocados . . . "These I do not have to like, do I?"

HOWARD DUFF, the heel who tries to pass himself off as a former Army Officer in "The Naked City," at the Palace, is one more radio voice who's making his face (see above) noticed in the movies . . . You first saw Howard as one of Burt Lancaster's cellmates in "Brute Force" and he'll be back again soon in "All My Sons." . . . For the CBS airways he was Sam Spade and that brought him to Mark Hellinger's attention . . . The New York radio boys and girls make fine money for their serial work, but they all seem to view it as an anonymous stepping stone to the flicks . . . Agnes Moorehead, Ed Begley, John McIntire, Bill Conrad, Lurene Tuttle and Marvin Miller are some of the radio folk you've been seeing the recent pictures and ther'll be a batch of them when Orson Welles' "Macbeth" finally is released.

NORA TOPALIAN of the University of Maryland writes to give this department a polite dressing-down on our kindly notes anent the G. W. Players' recent "Agamemnon" . . . "School rivalry, here?" writes Miss T., "perhaps, but that's not what I'm trying to bring out" . . . What Miss T. urges is some attention to Maryland's dramatic efforts . . . Next on the Maryland schedule is Moliere's "The Miser," during the week of April 27 . . . It's a date, Miss Topalian, though we've several hurdles to clear . . . On the 26th "The Red Mill," which we missed during vacation last fall, opens at the National; on the 27th the new Playhouse opens with a glittering audience we wouldn't miss for "The Search" and on the 28th we'll be writing a Sunday column . . . Those previous dates and the lack of a car are the problems . . . But one of our favorite readers has just given us her set of Moliere, so we'll get out to College Park somehow.

SPEAKING OF GW and its players, the next on the Lisner list is "Dark of the Moon," which will be played Friday and Saturday nights April 23 and 24 . . . This is Howard Richardson's and William Berney's adaptation of the old ballad, "Barbara Allen," which won them the Maxwell Anderson prize . . . Setting for this is the Smoky Mountains of North Carolina (hey, what about Tennessee?) and in honor of the North Carolina Congressional delegation, the "Dark of the Moon" cast will be entertaining Tuesday afternoon at a GW tea.

"HEDDA GABLER" is holding on for another week beginning Tuesday night in the tiny theater at the rear of 2118 Massachusetts ave . . . This is the Production Inc., revival of the Ibsen classic with Beatrice Newport and Barbara Joyce at the top of the cast.

LOOK FOR A bright audience for tonight's opening of "The Play's the Thing" at the National . . . Gilbert Miller, the international epicurean, will be down to watch Louis Calhern, Faye Emerson and Arthur Margetson in his New York-bound revival of the Molnar comedy . . . In the audience you'll also note Elliott Roosevelt, Miss Emerson's husband, and the bevy of female reporters who put on those skits for the President a week ago at the Statler . . . The boxes will be bulging with the lady amateurs.

D. C. X-Ray Survey Used as Model for Other Cities

The Washington Chest X-ray Survey to uncover tuberculosis here is being used as a working model of such health service for other large cities throughout the United States.

The next sizable city to tackle the tuberculosis control survey will be Seattle, Wash., where the public campaign will be modeled after the local system.

New York City, too, is studying the District's campaign, with the possibility that a similar drive will be conducted there. Grover A. Whalen, representing Mayor William O'Dwyer as president of the Mayor's committee, spent a full day here studying the campaign's operations.

Close to 330,000 persons had been X-rayed here by last night in the public drive that began January 13. By the survey's close, June 15, its sponsors hope to have examined the chests of the city's adult population, estimated at 600,000 persons.

Similar drives are under way in neighboring Prince Georges County, Md., and Arlington County, Va. Other campaigns in Fairfax County, Va., and Montgomery County, Md., have completed the screening X-rays.

Law Course Scheduled

A two-week course in military law for inactive Naval Reserve lawyers, law students and chaplains now living east of the Mississippi River will be given June 7-19 at the Naval Gun Factory here.

Just bend a private ear to what's being said all around you — and you'll get a dozen tips a day as to what's tops in cars this season.

"My dear," one gal tells another, "it's even smarter inside! Everybody says it's the best-looking car on the road, but just wait till you sit in it!

"And it's so easy to drive! I never thought a big car . . ."

"I'm telling you, Jim," you'll hear a man say. "Get a car that's big enough!

"There's just no substitute for enough roadweight — especially with that Buick power plant to give you the get-up-and-go you want."

"Listen!" says another. "Here's the first car where I've really been comfortable! We pack the whole crowd in — kids and all — and those big three-person seats give 'em all the wiggle-room they want — and still let me handle the wheel in comfort!"

Then you may overhear a very, very bubbly individual who's driving a Dynaflow* Buick.

"Nothing like it," he says. "Nothing like it ever before. Don't ask me how it works, I'm no engineer — but it's the silkiest, smoothest, slickest thing I ever laid hands on — and I've driven 'em all!

"Why, I went up Ft. George hill the other day —slowed to a dead-stop halfway up — held 'er there — picked up — went over the top accelerating — and never touched the control lever!

"Never did anything but feed gas as I wanted it!"

And so it goes.

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 11.—Ever since baseball has become big business it has qualified for another description. It is the worst-run big business in the world. And what they call spring training is one of its worst features. If the banks were ever hep to it, they'd call in their loans on baseball properties as a bad risk.

POVICH

The club owners bring their athletes south for six weeks, put them up in the best hotels, put them under a midnight curfew, provide them with trainers and then send them out on sandy diamonds that are only a cut above the sandlots. A twisted ankle or a wrenched knee, and spring training is a grim joke to the victim.

Only the Detroit Tigers are smart enough to send their own groundkeeper to Florida in advance of the squad. The other clubs play on fields that are scarcely manicured by a hoe or rake. A player's legs may not be important; they're only what he uses to run with. The club owners now pay $50,000 for just a half-decent ball player from the minors and bring him North with blisters.

THE NATS AND PHILLIES are now taking one of the routine barnstorming trips North after breaking camp, but the only routine feature of it is its routine snafu. They would be smarter staying in Florida and catching the express to the North the day before the season opens. But baseball has never done it that way before, and baseball is enslaved by custom, no matter how stupid.

So the Nats and Phillies are hitting the tank towns—Valdosta, Ga.; Montgomery, Greenville, Winston-Salem, Danville, etc. The fact that they don't whack up enough gate receipts to pay their expenses hasn't bothered 'em, yet. Six nights in Pullmans undo the rest and relaxation of six weeks in Florida, but the club owners don't think about that.

Clark Griffith and Bob Carpenter, who own the Nats and Phillies, and whose investments in their athletes and plants total about six million dollars, are not quite safeguarding their property. They spend about $50,000 each conditioning their athletes in Florida, and then go in for this barnstorming thing and dissipate whatever benefits Florida training might have been.

THE PLAYERS ARE supposed to attain and keep some kind of a physical edge after they leave Florida. But the Nats and Phillies, train companions on this trek, are now a grumbling, bewildered party. Train schedules have gone crazy, meals are catch-as-catch-can. Sleep is when and where you can get it, and the bus rides are pretty harrowing.

The two teams were supposed to get into Valdosta yesterday at noon and play a ball game. They got there, but only after a 58-mile bus ride through the swamps and across backwoods bridges that threatened to collapse any minute. The players even stationed quick-thinking teammates at the emergency doors and staged abandon-bus drills in case of emergency. They made it to Valdosta; up and back, and gratefully crawled into their berths.

It was supposed to be a five-hour train ride to Montgomery. It took 12. Breakfast was out of the question. No diner on the train. At noon the players had their first food of the day. They raided a country store at a whistle stop, and gorged themselves on candy bars, cokes and cherry pie. The two clubs may be weak in reserve strength, but they're deep in tummy-aches.

THE RINGLING BROTHERS, whose winter quarters are also in Florida, do better by their performers. The circus people eat and sleep on schedule, unlike the ball players. Their rehearsals are always accompanied by the best available props, not on mangy old grounds that invite hops and black eyes and induce shyness.

We do not mean to be a bleeding heart for the ball players. They are young, mostly, and tough, and they can rough it, but the club owners ought to take more care with their investments. Ted Williams' appendicitis proved to be an upset stomach. Joe DiMaggio once burned himself so badly with a heat treatment he missed the first six weeks of the season. Babe Ruth filled up on hot dogs and was a hospital case for a month in the South. The owners spend hundreds of thousands for rookies, and nothing for a dietician.

Every time we begin to register some disgust with the operation of big league owners, however, we come up with our own comforting philosophy that baseball is simply that way. How bright do you think baseball people can be, anyway. It took 'em 85 years, honest, to think up the brilliant idea of putting numbers on ball players' backs.

Dutch Leonard Hangs 9-1 Loss On Our Nats

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Montgomery, Ala., April 11.—Dutch Leonard, minus his paunch, and the Nats, minus their punch, tangled here today and Leonard was the winner. He held the Nats to six hits, and pitched the Phillies to a soft-touch 9-1 victory.

Leonard, the old knuckleballer, who was peddled to the Phillies a year ago and promptly trimmed his bulging 205 pounds to a svelt 175, turned in a swell performance before 5500 natives in the stands. The Nats didn't make enough noise at bat to disturb the Sabbath peace.

It was their third straight licking by the Phillies, who when last seen in the National League were locked in a tie for eighth place. Milo Candini, Mickey Haefner and Eearly Wynn were all touched by the Phils, who scored in four different innings.

Sullivan Bobbles Again

For six innings, the Nats couldn't outhit Leonard, much less beat him. He held 'em to two hits until the seventh, and by that time he had two hits himself against the Washington pitching.

Montgomery folk were hardly impressed with the Nats as an American League pennant factor. In addition to their futility against Leonard, they tossed three errors into the game, including Johnny Sullivan's daily wild throw that figured in his daily two gift runs to the opposition.

Candini held the Phils to one hit in the first inning, but they came up with two runs, nevertheless. A single by Del Ennis scored Ashburne and Haas, who had walked, and the Phils had a lead that they soon multiplied.

They improved their status in the fifth to 7-0, with five more runs three of which were gifts. The first one was honest enough, with Andy Seminick banging a long triple to right center to score Eddie Miller who walked, but therefore their runs came cheaply.

Coan Misjudges Fly

Haefner moved in to replace Candini and Ellis saluted him with a single for the fifth run.

The Nats got nothing for seven innings. Sullivan and Coan whacked out singles in the fourth, but Ennis threw out Sullivan at the plate when he tried to score from second on Coan's single to right. They didn't get another hit until Robertson's infield bounder in the seventh.

Al Kozar drove in the Nats' lone run in the eighth. He did it with a lusty double to center, after Evans opened the inning with a single the Nats couldn't stir up anything like the eight runs needed to send the game into extra innings. The two teams moved on to Greenville, S. C., after the game, for another game tomorrow.

Flashbacks on One of Grid's Greats

Jock Sutherland, coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers, who died yesterday in Pittsburgh of a brain tumor, is shown (left) when he visited Washington in 1934 with one of his great University of Pittsburgh football teams. The Panthers stopped off for a practice session at Georgetown University on the way to Annapolis to play Navy. Shown with Sutherland are Izzy Weinstock (left) backfield star, and Doc Hartwig, guard. Sutherland is pictured (center) with two unidentified players in 1937, the year he won the Rose Bowl game with one of his greatest college teams. Pitt beat Washington, 21-0. At right, Sutherland is shown last Wednesday, the day he was found wandering in a muddy field near Bandana, Ky.

Allie Reynolds started on the mound for the World Champions and gave the Pelicans all their runs in the first five innings. Randy Gumpert relieved in the sixth and held the Southerners scoreless the rest of the way.

An overflow crowd of 8468 saw the Yankees rack up their twenty-first win of the spring exhibition season against 1 tie and 11 setbacks.

The Dodgers were rained out of their scheduled game with the Orioles yesterday in Baltimore.

San Antonio, Tex., April 11 (AP). Floyd Baker led a 14-hit Chicago White Sox attack with four singles in as many times at bat today as the American Leaguers downed Pittsburgh, 5-1.

The batwork was at the expense of Kirby Higbe and Elmef Singleton. The Sox's Ralph Weigel contributed a double and two bingles and Luke Appling slammed a two-run homer, off Singleton in the ninth.

Sutherland's Aide Expected To Take Over

Pittsburgh, April 11 (AP).—Johnny Michelosen, first assistant coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers, is considered the man most likely to succeed Head Coach Jock Sutherland, who died early today.

Michelosen, 32, and a former University of Pittsburgh player, probably knows as much about the Sutherland system as any man in the game today.

He played three years as varsity quarterback for Dr. Sutherland at Pitt in 1935-36-37. He has been Sutherland's assistant five years—

It was believed Sutherland planned to turn the active Steeler coaching reins over to the younger man at the expiration of the five-year contract in 1951.

Sutherland, who was a vice president of the Steelers, once told Michelosen:

"You know as much about football as I do. Some day you'll take over. I'll be around to help you, but I'm getting up in years and want to relax."

Pittsburgh Steelers officials, stunned by Sutherland's death, said they would make no announcement as to a successor until later.

Colleges Face Heavy Slates

Three contests apiece for most of Washington's collegiate baseball teams mark this week's schedule. The schedule opens Tuesday with George Washington's invasion of College Park for a meeting with Maryland's wobbly two-team system.

The Colonials try for their second triumph of the season over Quantico Wednesday and come back for a home stand against Virginia on Saturday. Maryland has a Wednesday date with Temple at home, then moves to Cornell Friday and Rutgers Saturday.

Georgetown, after twin routings of Fordham, entertains Temple Tuesday, and Friday travels for a game with Washington-Lee, followed by at Saturday clash with V.M.I.

Both Catholic University games this week are away, Tuesday at Washington College and Saturday at Johns Hopkins. The same is true of Gallaudet, which invades Randolph-Macon Tuesday, at Towson Teachers Friday.

American is idle until the weekend, then plays host on Friday to Loyola of Baltimore, and follows with a Saturday jaunt to Quantico.

Howard will be on the road for all its games, Wednesday at Fort Belvoir, Friday at Fort Myer, and Saturday at Delaware.

Closes With 70

Harmon's 279 Wins Masters, Ties Record

Augusta, Ga., April 11 (AP).—The coveted Masters title—the blue-ribbon honor of golf—went to Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., today when he finished with a record-tieing total of 279.

Harmon, a compact clouter who spurns the regular pro tours because of bigger money at his home club, Mamaroneck's celebrated Wing Foot, scored a 70 on his final round. That made it three 70's and a 69 in four days.

Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., finished second with a total of 284. Chick Harbert got third money with a 287. Jim Ferrier of Chicago and Lloyd Mangrum, who had been the big pretournament favorite tied with 288's for fourth. Their scores were par for 72 holes.

Harmon's first-place check was good for $2500 and Middlecoff took $1500.

Celebrities Far Down

There was no question about his winning when he toured the first 9 in 33. The huge gallery of about 10,000 crowded around the 18th when he came in to see if he would break the tournament record set by Ralph Guldahl in 1939.

He didn't quite break it but his tie made him the happiest man in golf. The terrific pressure on the final nine caused him to go one over par for that distance.

Todd Fades Badly

The only time the outcome became close was early in the day when Harbert, two strokes behind yesterday, picked up a swing as Harmon bogeyed his fourth. Then Harmon started a blazing string of approach shots and Harbert blew up.

Back of the 288's were Ed Furgol, Royal Oak, Mich., and Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa., never a strong threat in this year's Masters, with 28's.

Harry Todd of Dallas, Tex., second-round sensation who faded yesterday, and Byron Nelson of Roanoke, Tex., had 290s.

Dick Metz, Arkansas City, Kans., and Bobby Locke, South Africa, were locked at 291, along with Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohio, the surprise winner of the 1946 Masters.

All the first 20 pros finished in the money, which ranged down to $100 apiece for the last four. Skee Riegel, Glendale, Calif., was easily the top amateur with a 293.

Marines, Bombers On 'Thrill' Show

Quantico's Marines meet the Martin Bombers in the fetaure baseball game on the Masonic "Night of Thrills" program, June 18, at Griffith Stadium.

The Marines won the All-Navy championship last year. Martin won the All-America Amateur Baseball Association tournament in 1946, but couldn't defend its title last year because several of its players were declared ineligible. In another game on the program the Alexandria and Silver Spring De Molays will clash.

Nats Have 13 Won, 12 Lost Record in Grapefruit League

New York, April 11 (U.P.).—Washington's Nats finished their Florida Grapefruit League season with a winning 13-12 record, according to a survey released today.

The Nats captured only two out of seven games with American League opponents, won four of eight from National League foes and sported a 7-3 record against minor league opposition.

Leading the training season parade were the Brooklyn Dodgers, with a 27-1 mark. The Bums steered clear of major league rivals, however, fattening their average against strictly bush league competition. Only loss sustained by the Brooklynites was a defeat Charleston of the Sally League handed the Dodger B team.

Pacing the American League clubs were the world champion New York Yankees, with a 21-10 record, including an 18-9 slate against major league rivals.

Gibson Meets Pelaia on Fight Card

Terry Gibson and Ernie Pelaia, two middleweights from opposite ends of the Nation, meet in the 10-round feature of tonight's boxing card, which begins at 8:30 at Turner's Arena.

For Gibson, who hails from Los Angeles, tonight's bout is a return engagement. Two weeks ago at Turner's the showboating veteran outpointed Walter Rowan of Richmond. Pelaia hails from Pittsburgh.

He has been beaten by such worthies as Tommy Yaroz, Jimmy Edgar and Tommy Bell.

Last year, Gibson drew with Bob O'Fallon, decisioned Phil Palmer, and knocked out Johnny Saurez. He has fought in Mexican bullrings, Honolulu and Vancouver.

Pelaia was such an outstanding crowd pleaser in Florida last year that the headlined eight consecutive shows in Miami.

Among his victims were Carmen Notch, Johnny Rozzina, Ben Montabana, Bobby Elliott, Chico Pacheco and Jimmy Pierce.

Supporting bouts on tonight's card pit Kid Willie against Roscoe Mercer, Chico Griffo against Eddie Johnson and Norman Henson against Angelo Marini in four rounders. Torpedo Reed faces Sam Jefferson in a five rounder.

4 Maryland Colts Test Calumet Ace

Havre de Grace, Md., April 11 (AP).—Havre de Grace opens the first start since winning the Flamingo season tomorrow, but there was no division of minds on the favorite in the featured Chesapeake Trial with Calumet Farm's Citation in the race.

Trainer Jimmy Jones will send out the 3-year-old star for his first start since winning the flamingo stakes in February. This was his fourth 1948 triumph and twelfth in 13 starts of an already illustrious racing career.

Nine other colts, including his stablemate, Beau Dandy, are overnight starters against the formidable son of Bull Lea. However, Beau Dandy, High Ground Stable's Hefty and Cedar Farms' Brandy Punch are nominated for another race on the same card and are not likely to take up the issue with Citation.

This would leave six colts, four of them Kentucky Derby eligibles, to oppose Citation as the Calumet comet starts warming up for the run for the roses in Louisville, May 1.

Jockey Eddie Arcaro will leave his successful riding campaign at Jamaica to come down to handle the Derby winter book favorite. After tomorrow's 6-furlong dash for a $10,000 purse, Citation and Arcaro will come back in Saturday's $25,000 Chesapeake Stakes at a mile and a sixteenth.

Maryland-bred colts loom as the principal challengers to Citation in the trial. Those include Mrs. Albert Sagner's Saggy, Mrs. J. V. Stewart's Dr. Almac, Sylvester W. Labrot's Bovard and Alan T. Clarke's Fritz Maisel.

Saggy, Dr. Almac and Bovard will run with four pounds less than Citation's 126. Fritz Maisel will carry 118.

The other overnight starters and weights are Walter M. Jeffords' Frenchtown, 118, and Mrs. J. D. S. Coleman's Certified, 114. Frenchtown, Certified and Brandy are the only probables not eligible for the Kentucky Derby.

The 14 days of Havre de Grace's spring meeting will be spread over three weeks until May 1. There will be no racing on Monday and Tuesday of the last two weeks.

Fans will have the usual railroad service to the track since it is reached by the electrified Pennsylvania. Bowie, which closed yesterday, had to depend on buses for service because of the Government reduction of coal-operated trains.

Coolidge-Eastern Game Tops Heavy Scholastic Schedule

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

The Interhigh baseball series gets off to an interesting start Friday. Calvin Coolidge's Colts and Eastern's Ramblers, the two teams considered likeliest for the playoffs, meet at Eastern in one of the four-league openers.

The other three curtain raisers find Western at McKinley Tech, Central at Roosevelt and Anacostia at Woodrow Wilson.

These four contests highlight a heavy week of schoolboy sports activities including 50 baseball games, eight track meets, 12 golf matches and four tennis matches.

Coolidge has a two-year, 22-game winning streak. By Friday the string may be extended to 24. The Colts, who have beaten Episcopal of Alexandria and Montgomery Blair so far this season, meet Woodberry Forest today and Georgetown Prep Tuesday in non-league contests.

Eastern has beaten Episcopal and George Washington of Alexandria so far. The Ramblers were runners-up last year as Coolidge won its second straight title. Eastern plays the Navy Plebes at Annapolis Wednesday.

On paper, Eastern appears to have more balance. They have veterans at every position, while the Colts have only three regulars back from their title team, plus a few promising newcomers.

Eastern Coach Rolland Lund will probably save his veteran Righthander Eddie Kline for the Colts, while Lefty Ben DuVall, who pitched for Woodward last year, will get the call for Coolidge.

Leading the champs will be Outfielders Jimmy Colliton and Stanley (Hank) Greenberg, and Shortstop Jess Houston. Spearheading Eastern will be such veterans as Catcher Sal DeGiorgi, First Baseman Dave Zatz, Shortstop Bill Kallas and Outfielder Marty Cribbins.

Cobb Offers To Plug Nats' Outfield Hole

By Bus Ham
Post Reporter

Ty Cobb was a Washington visitor for a few hours yesterday.

Cobb flew into town by Eastern Airlines from Georgia, where he had visited at his former home, Royston, to formulate plans for a Cobb Hospital in memory of Ty's father and mother.

With the facility that characterized his major league baseball days, the famed Georgian had time to:

1. Drop a word of advice to Gil Coan, the Nats' young outfielder.

2. Say that his all-time big-league line-up would differ at first base, second base, third base and one of the outfield positions from the team recently selected by Babe Ruth.

3. Take half a dozen medicine bottles and a long diet sheet out of his pocket when he sat down to eat lunch at the National Airport.

4. Go out to the ball park for a friendly chat with Clark Griffith.

5. Say that he will be here for the National Celebrities Golf Tournament.

Of young Coan, Cobb said: "Tell that boy to use his base-running ability principally for taking that extra base and not so much in attempts to steal bases. Baseball is different from what it was when I played. In these days of the lively ball, the stolen base doesn't mean as much as it used to.

"And tell him to hook slide into those bases, just hook them with his toe and he won't get his ankles hurt."

Cobb said that his all-time major league team would differ from Ruth's in this way. Cobb would have George Sisler at first, instead of Hal Chase, Eddie Collins at second instead of Larry Lajois, Buck Weaver at third instead of Jimmy Collins, and Cobb left himself out of the outfield, picking of Ruth, Joe Jackson and Tris Speaker.

At the ball park, Cobb interrupted the daily pinochle game long enough to ask Griff how his kid team is coming along.

Griff said: "Fine, but I'll be much obliged if you'll send me a centerfielder."

Ty said: "How will I do? I'm down to 192, my exact weight when I played my last major league game in 1928."

Cobb has been a pretty sick man for the past year but now is well on his way to recovery. Doctors have placed him on a strict diet and told him to resume exercising.

Back on May 16

"This means that I'll be able to play golf again," Ty said.

He promised to return to Washington for the National Celebrities Tournament at Columbia Golf and Country Club May 16. He will be paired with Ruth and Speaker. When this was mentioned to Griff, the 78-year-old Nats owner said, "Pair me with those guys. I can take them."

Cobb left Washington last night for a stopover in Detroit en route to his present home at Menlo Park, Calif.

"I was an eight-handicap player a year ago," Cobb said. "I'm a left-handed golfer, same as I was a hitter in baseball, and I'll be back on my game for the National Celebrities."

Sutherland—From P. 12

Sutherland Dies at 59

lieutenant commander in World War II. He served in rehabilitation work and after his discharge in 1946 came "home" to coach the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Born in Scotland

His two seasons here were among the Steelers' most successful. The once weak club became an Eastern Division threat, tieing for the divisional title in 1947 before bowing out in a playoff with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Born in Cooper Angus, Scotland, where his aged mother still lives, Dr. Sutherland came to America in 1907 and settled in nearby Sewickley, Pa.

After working seven years he entered the University of Pittsburgh and began a rise to football fame. He played in the first college game he ever saw and was a member of three undefeated Pitt teams—the 1915-1916-1917 elevens—under Glenn S. (Pop) Warner.

He studied dentistry and won his doctorate. He later became an instructor in the University's dental school.

He served overseas in World War I and became head coach at Lafayette College, Easton, Pa., in 1919. His Lafayette teams trounced Pitt in 1921 and 1922 and these successes were instrumental in his appointment as head coach when Warner resigned in 1923 to go to Stanford.

One of Highest Paid

Since the end of the past football season Sutherland had made several trips and had filled a speaking engagement at a coaches' clinic shortly before his departure for the South. Aides said at times he said he suffered from a severe headache but added that he appeared in good spirits.

Sutherland was believed to be one of the highest paid coaches in the National Football League. His five-year contract carried a percentage clause. He also was a vice president of the club.

Sutherland was known for the single wing power football he learned under Warner. He was one of the few coaches who refused to be converted when the "T" formation revival was sweeping the Nation's gridirons.

Sutherland never married. His survivors included his aged mother and a sister, Louisa, who live in Cooper Angus, Scotland; another sister, Marion of Pittsburgh, and a brother, William, an insurance salesman, also of Pittsburgh.

Funeral plans are incomplete.

Stassen Attends Church Here Alone

By Robert Tate Allan
Post Reporter

Presidential Candidate Harold E. Stassen attended church here yesterday, and heard a sermon plea for renewed faith in God.

Stassen, former vice president of the Northern Baptist Convention and past president of the Minnesota Baptist Young People's Union, went alone to the 11 o'clock services at Calvary Baptist Church, 8th and H sts. nw.

With other worshipers, Stassen heard Dr. Clarence W. Cranford, pastor, declare:

"In a world like we have, the church is tremendously important, because it calls men back to faith in God, and faith in God can do for us what nothing else can do in helping us find our way out of the chaos we are in."

Recognized and surrounded by parishioners after the service, Stassen hurried from the church and returned to his suite at the Statler Hotel. His home church is the Riverview Baptist Church of West St. Paul, Minn. He was at one time president of the International Council of Religious Education.

Former Pastors Welcomed

Three churches yesterday welcomed back former pastors as speakers.

Bishop Oliver J. Hart of the Pennsylvania Diocese spoke at 11 a. m. at St. John's Episcopal Church, Lafayette Square, where he was rector from 1934 to 1940.

The Rev. F. Bland Tucker, now rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Savannah, Ga., spoke at St. John's Episcopal Church, Georgetown Parish, 3204 O st. nw., where he was formerly rector. Because he wanted to complete a program of progress at his present church, Mr. Tucker last January declined election to the episcopate of the Diocese of Western North Carolina. His brother, the Right Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, was formerly Episcopal presiding bishop.

Speaker at services marking the forty-fifth anniversary of the present edifice of West Washington Baptist Church, 31st and N sts. nw., was Dr. C. C. Coleman, pastor from 1901 to 1905. It was under his pastorate that the present church was built, after destruction of the old church by fire. Now retired, Dr. Coleman lives at the Washington Hotel here with a daughter, Miss Juliette Coleman.

Bishop Hart, in his message at St. John's Lafayette Square, said the center of any strong community life must be a strong Christian fellowship.

The Christian life, he emphasized, is not just an individual affair, but is a life that must be lived in a fellowship of sharing. If we want to strengthen the Christian movement, he said, we must begin at home by increasing the vitality of our own churches.

Litany Desk Dedicated

A litany desk was dedicated yesterday morning at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Connecticut ave. and Everett st. nw., in memory of Dr. Harry T. Domer. His widow, Mrs. Gertrude M. Domer, made the presentation.

Dr. Domer, for many years one of Washington's distinguished laymen, was a councilman at St. Paul's. The Domer Bible Class was named after his father, past minister of St. Paul's.

Members of the Sunday Morning Breakfast Club of the Central YMCA, 1736 G st. nw., heard an inspirational talk by Norman P. Grubb, London, worker in the world-wide evangelism crusade. Grubb, who is appearing here under the auspices of the National Committee for Christian Leadership, will address a clergymen's meeting today at noon at the College of Preachers, Washington Cathedral.

2 Men Clad In Marine Blues Beat, Rob Cabbie

Same Bandit Band Of 5 Is Beleived Involved in 2 Morning Assaults

Four men, one of them a cab driver, were victims of robberies late Saturday night and early yesterday.

Two of the robberies, police believed, may have involved the same band of five men.

At about 2 a. m., Robert G. Davis, 1448 Park rd. nw., was assaulted by five men in the 1200 block of F st. nw. They took his watch, valued at $5. Davis was treated at Emergency Hospital for lacerations to his right arm and left hand.

At 3:30 a. m., Milton Jones, 32, of 35½ Massachusetts ave. nw., was jumped by five men in the unit block of H st. ne. Jones had nothing of value in his possession. He was treated at Sibley Hospital for cuts and bruises.

In neither case, police said, were the victims able to give a good description of the five men.

The cab driver, Maurice Ausquith, 29, of 7205 F st., Seat Pleasant, Md., told police he picked up two marines in dress blues at about 3:40 a. m. at 4th and T sts. ne., and drove them to the 3900 block of Nebraska ave. nw.

There, he said, the pair beat him about the face and robbed him of $5. He said the marines then drove his cab to the 4300 block of Massachusetts ave. nw., where they again beat him and robbed him of his wrist watch and his change carrier containing $5. Then they fled on foot.

Joseph Norwalk, 59, of 1413 Rhode Island ave. nw., told police he was robbed of his wrist watch and $60 shortly before midnight when he stopped in an alley near the 1200 block of 30th st. nw., to have a drink with a man.

Norwalk said the man struck him in the face with the whisky bottle so hard that he fell and fractured his left leg. Norwalk was admitted to Mount Alto Hospital with the leg fracture and face lacerations.

The victim told police his assailant was a medium brown-skin Negro, about 30, 6 feet, 175 pounds, and wore a gray topcoat and brown hat.

Va. Dentists Oppose School Candy Sale

Richmond, Va., April 11 (AP).—A three-day conference on dental health in Virginia, which ended here today, resulted in recommendations for improving dental service, broadening dental health education and applying methods of preventing tooth decay on a Statewide basis. They recommended the discouragement of candy sale at schools.

The conference, attended by 47 dentists from all parts of the State under sponsorship of the Virginia State Dental Association and the State Department of Health, also reported a resolution opposing "unequivocally" the principle of compulsory health insurance for dental care.

The recommendations were made to the executive council of the State Dental Association, which will present them to the membership of the association at its annual convention at Hotel John Marshall here Tuesday and Wednesday.

Major recommendations contained in the report were:

1. Creation of dentist placement agency, to insure that new dentist would settle in areas where they would be most needed.
2. State support of dental education should be greater.
3. At least 25 per cent of the family dentist's practice should consist of child patients, since approximately one quarter of the population of Virginia consists of children under 15 years of age.
4. A comprehensive dental health education program should be launched in every community including school studies, distribution of educational material to parents, and screening of all such material in advance by the Virginia State Dental Association.
5. Topical application of sodium fluoride to children's teeth to prevent decay should be made available in every community.
6. The State Department of Education should "discourage the sale" of "confections, soft drinks and other objectionable carbohydrates" in the cafeterias of Virginia schools, as a measure to prevent tooth decay.

Assault Victim Critically Ill, Pair Is Sought

John Berto Suffers Hemorrhage of Brain After Severe Beating

Police yesterday were looking for a man and woman who severely beat a 32-year-old bartender early Friday morning in front of his home at 1010 23d st. nw.

The victim, John Berto, an employe of the Atlas Club, is in critical condition at Georgetown University Hospital, suffering from a brain hemorrhage.

Berto told police that when he arrived at his home the man and woman were arguing loudly in the street. He said when he asked them to quiet down the man knocked him to the sidewalk with his fist and the woman stomped on him with her feet.

The bartender regained his feet and fled across the street, where he tried to arouse a neighbor. He told police the man and woman followed him across the street and again assaulted him, then ran away.

Friday night Berto became very ill and went to a doctor. He was rushed to the hospital.

Berto told police the man and woman were both Negroes. The woman was about 40, 5 feet 5, 120 pounds, of slim build and with medium dark skin. She had a turban wrapped around her head and wore a dark two-piece dress. The was was about 45, 5 feet 9, 140 pounds, of slender build and had medium brown skin. He wore a gray suit and a light gray felt hat.

When police questioned Berto he told them that about $50 was missing from his pocket, but he did not know whether he had been robbed or whether the money had dropped from his pocket during the scuffle.

To Enter Senate Race

Crewe, Va., April 11 (AP).—Lynwood H. Wilson, former mayor of Crewe, announced today that he will be a candidate to fill the vacancy in the State Senate from the Ninth Senatorial District. The vacancy was created by the recent death of Dr. W. D. Kendig of Kenbridge.

Weather Forces Cancellation Of Cherry Blossom Festival

Cold wet weather forced cancellation of yesterday's cherry blossom pageant at Hains Point.

The second phase of the two-day celebration was called off by the Greater National Capital Committee at 1 p. m., half an hour before the show was to start. Officials had toured Hains Point shortly before and found it too cold and damp for either the princesses or the public.

"We tried awfully hard not to call this off today," C. J. Mack, chairman of the festival committee, said, "but we decided it would be very unfair to put it on."

Queen Doris Sheldon, 16, and her court of pretty girls heard the disappointing news at a luncheon in Hotel Carlton. Said the shy, blue-eyed queen-for-a-day: "I'm sorry about today, but it's been wonderful."

Her afternoon was substantially brightened, however, when she was presented a gold watch by Joseph C. McGarraghy, general chairman of the National Capital Committee. The Claymont, Del., girl leaves for Charleston, S. C., today at 11 a. m. to attend a three-day azalea festival.

Also disheartened by the unexpected cancellation of festivities was Julie Bailey, one of the princesses, who represented South Dakota. Said she:

"It's come to an end too soon. Going back to being a plain office girl Monday is going to be tough."

600 Rotarians Tour Capital In Opening 2-Day Conference

Some 600 Rotarians from 36 clubs in the District and Maryland toured Washington yesterday in the opening activity of their two-day conference here.

Guests of the Washington Rotary Club visited the Capitol, the Washington, Lincoln and Jefferson monuments, Mount Vernon and other places. At 4 p. m. they returned to meeting headquarters at the Mayflower Hotel for a tea.

After a buffet supper in the hotel's East Room last night, they heard a speech by the Rev. Robert E. Sherrill, pastor of Washington Hights Presbyterian Church. Entertainment was furnished by the George Washington University Glee Club.

Business sessions at 9:30 a. m. and 2:30 p. m. will highlight today's activities. After a welcome from Commissioner John Russell Young, delegates will be addressed by Brig. Gen. John E. Dahlquist, Army deputy director of personnel, who will speak on "Manpower;" 180th District Governor Howard S. LeRoy, Washington lawyer, and Will R. Manier, past president of Rotary International of Nashville, Tenn.

Assistant Secretary of State George V. Allen will speak on United States foreign relations at a noon luncheon. At 2:30 p. m., Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa), chairman of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, will speak on "The Atom."

Women members of the conference will attend a White House reception at 2 p. m. today to meet the Frst Lady. After the reception, they will see a fashion show at the Shoreham Hotel.

A banquet at 7:30 p. m., presided over by District Governor and Mrs. LeRoy, will end the conference.

Action Expected During Week on Rent Controls

Congressional action on District rent controls, which expire at the end of this month, is expected early this week.

A bill extending the local rent regulations, with certain decontrols, already has been approved by the Senate District Committee, and may come up on the Senate floor Monday.

The decontrols cover transient housing accommodations in hotels; new construction after March 31, 1948; nonhousekeeping furnished rooms in single-dwelling units having not more than two paying tenants.

Representative Joseph P. O'Hara (R., Minn.) plans to call his House District Subcommittee together Monday or Tuesday to work out a House rent control extension bill.

Man Drowned, Uncle Saved in Capsizing Here

Body of J. M. Miller Recovered 6 Hours Later From Channel

A 26-year-old war veteran was drowned at about 7:30 a. m. yesterday when his rowboat capsized in the Georgetown Channel at the foot of 27th and F sts. nw.

The victim was James Morris Miller of 4320 N. 4th st., Arlington, employed by Capital Airlines as supervisor of inventory control. Harbor Police Pvts. M. G. Randall and William A. Link dragged the channel bed in a patrol boat and finally recovered the body at about 2 p. m.

Miller and his uncle, Henry Miller, 50, of 3912 N. 5th st., Arlington, went out in the rowboat to fish for perch. The uncle said they were about 25 feet off shore in 6 feet of water when the boat overturned as the younger man was heaving the anchor overboard.

The younger Miller disappeared below the surface, but the uncle managed to cling to the capsized boat.

James V. Griffis, 58, a painter, of 4922 4th st. nw., who was fishing 1000 feet downstream in an outboard motor boat, raced to the overturned boat and pulled the uncle to safety.

The older Miller, who is employed as a section manager at Kann's Department Store, was treated for shock and exposure at Emergency Hospital.

After the body of the younger man was recovered, it was identified at the morgue by a friend of the family.

The family friend said the victim was survived by his wife, Virginia; a daughter, Linda, 2; a sister, Lillian Miller of 629 S. Filmore st., Arlington, and his parents, who live in North Carolina.

He said he was in the Army Air Forces during the war, saw duty at Panama and received a medical discharge in 1942.

Fire Official Faces Traffic Drunk Count

D. C. Deputy Chief Engineer Posts $125 After 4 Hours In Hyattsville Jail

Ivan J. Dahlstrom, deputy chief engineer of the District Fire Department, was charged with drunken and reckless driving yesterday by Prince Georges County police.

Police said Dahlstrom was booked after a Fire Department sedan, assigned to him, had rammed into the rear of another car at 11:40 a. m. at 39th st. and Bladensburg rd., Colmar Manor.

The 48-year-old Dahlstrom, who is superintendent of machinery in the Fire Department, was held at the Hyattsville jail for four hours. His bond was set at $1100, but the deputy fire chief elected instead to post $125 cash collateral.

Rammed at Traffic Light

Lieut. Michael Mulligan of the Colmar Manor town police said Dahlstrom's car collided with one driven by Stephen Gill, 28, of 428 Orange st. se.

Mulligan said Gill's car had stopped at the intersection for a traffic light when Dahlstrom's car rammed it. A technical charge of reckless driving was placed against Gill.

Damage to both cars was slight, Mulligan said, adding that the only damage to the Fire Department auto was a crumpled grill and fender.

When contacted by telephone, Dahlstrom admitted he had been involved in the accident but said: "Nothing to it."

He said damage to his car amounted to only about $12.

Members for 22 Years

Dahlstrom said he had been a member of the fire department for 22 years, most of the time in the machine shop; that he had been assistant superintendent of the machine shop for 16 years and was appointed superintendent last year. He said he was returning home from the machine shop when the crash occurred.

Asked if there was any basis for the drunken driving charge, he replied, "No comment."

Dahlstrom is to appear for a hearing April 19 in Hyattsville Police Court. He lives at 5317 Greenway dr., Hyattsville.

European Borer Hurt Md. Corn $2 Million in 1947

The European corn borer caused 2 million dollars damage to Maryland's corn crop last year, the Department of Agriculture estimates.

The estimate was based on tests made by three University of Maryland entomologists, H. S. McConnell, J. J. Chisholm and T. L. Bissell.

They took borer tests in corn fields throughout the State last fall and found every county is now infested with the insect, brought to the U. S. accidently 30 years ago.

Southern Maryland and the two westernmost counties have suffered least, the entomologists reported.

Bissell recommended that before May 15 farmers plow under or destroy corn stalks and cobs left from last year. He said these furnish a hiding place for the insect in its over-wintering larval stage.

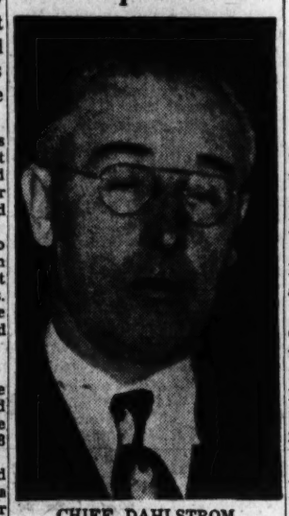
Auto Kills Man In Chevy Chase; D. C. Toll at 25

Damages District Fire Dept. Car



CHIEF DAHLSTROM
Charged with driving while drunk

Connecticut Ave. Accident Victim Was Driver of a Death Car in 1940

D. C. traffic deaths 1948..... 25
Deaths this date last year.... 22
Traffic deaths 1947..... 72

Fate played an ironic encore for Walter C. Duke, 59, when he was struck by a car and killed in Chevy Chase, Md., yesterday.

In October, 1940, a car driven by Duke struck and fatally injured a man in Silver Spring, Md.

Duke's traffic death was the second for Greater Washington yesterday. James A. Green, 71, of 1006 44th pl. ne., died in Casualty Hospital of injuries suffered last Tuesday. Green's death raised to 25 the District traffic toll for 1948.

Duke, whose address was 200 Jones Bridge rd., Chevy Chase, was struck as he was crossing Connecticut ave., near Chevy Chase Lake, about eight blocks past the District line.

Head Chest Crushed

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Suburban Hospital, Bethesda, where he was rushed by the Bethesda-Chevy Chase Rescue squad. Physicians said his head and chest had been crushed.

Montgomery County police said the auto which struck Duke was driven by Mrs. Evelyn B. Nickel, 32, of 2206 Cheverly ave., Cheverly, Md.

The fatal accident was witnessed by the daughter of the victim, Norma Grace Duke. She said her father had stepped from their car and was crossing the street to a gasoline filling station.

The 1940 fatal accident involving Duke resulted in the death of Henry Waunk, a 64-year-old District carpenter. At that time, police said Waunk was trying to get out of the path of a bus and stepped in front of Duke's car.

Painter at Navy Yard

A Navy veteran of World War I, Duke had been employed for more than 15 years as a painter and decorator at the Navy Yard. He was a native of Pittsburgh, but had lived most of his life in Greater Washington. He was a Mason, a member of St. John's Lodge of Washington.

His immediate survivors include his wife, Minnie, and another daughter, Etta Jane.

The District's 25th traffic fatality, Green, had been in Casualty Hospital since late Tuesday night in critical condition with a fractured skull.

According to police, he was struck by a streetcar while crossing between loading platforms in the 3400 block of Benning rd. ne. The operator of the streetcar, police said, was Walter L. McVearry, 35, of 102 36th st. ne.

Area Traffic Toll Registers Drop in March

First-Quarter Figure For Accidents Nearly 1000 Over That of '47

Traffic accidents, injuries and deaths in Greater Washington decreased last month as compared with February.

Fatalities dropped from 15 to 14, but the death toll was still above the March 1947 total of nine. In all three categories, increases over the previous year were shown.

For the first quarter of the year there were almost 1000 more accidents in the area than during the same period last year, but the number of deaths fell off by four.

In the District there were four fewer deaths than in the previous month and one fewer than the month of March 1947. Accidents, injuries and deaths for the three-month period in the District remained above those for last year, a result of big jumps in all three during February.

Arlington County, which had no traffic deaths in either February of this year or March, 1947, had two fatalities last month. In spite of this increase, Arlington's traffic death toll for the first quarter of 1948 was two below last year.

Alexandria alone had no traffic fatalities during the month, but accidents in that city were up 61 over the three-month total for last year.

Montgomery County had its only traffic death of the quarter during March. There were five fatalities in the first quarter of 1947.

Streptomycin's Value In Tuberculosis Stressed

Baltimore, April 11 (AP).—Copies of letters stressing the value of the drug streptomycin in tuberculosis treatment and surgery have been sent to Governor Lane, the State Health Department, and Mayor D'Aresandro of Baltimore.

D'Aesandro of Baltimore.

of Baltimore, vice president of the Streptomycin Gift Bank, Inc., who is working to have the drug made available free of charge to needy patients in State institutions.

Recently, Dr. Robert H. Riley, director of the State Health Department, appointed a committee of doctors to report on streptomycin.

Two Meetings Today To Discuss Accidents

Two session of safety officials will be held here today to discuss the increase in traffic fatalities and accidents among children in Greater Washington.

George R. Hammond, director of safety and education of the District division of the American Automobile Association, has invited traffic safety officials to gather in his office at 10 a. m. to consider the problem.

The matter will also be the principal point of discussion at a luncheon session of the District advisory board of the AAA at 12:30 p. m. at the Mayflower Hotel.

Speakers at the luncheon will include Inspector Arthur E. Miller, head of the police traffic division, and Police Capt. L. T. Johnson, who was recently graduated from the traffic institute at Northwestern University.

McGee Herd Tops List

Highlands Plan Own Recreational Facilities

Faced with a bumper crop of children and no recreational facilities for them, a group of determined Washington Highlands residents are going to build their own.

Residents of the area, where housing developments have been rapidly mushrooming, have set their hearts on use of Bald Eagle, a knoll overlooking the Potomac located at the end of Nichols ave. sw., almost on the District line.

Late last year the Navy, which had used Bald Eagle as a storage area relinquished it to National Capital Parks, for eventual assignment to the District Recreation Board. Alert leaders of the Washington Highlands Citizens Association felt this area and the main storage building would be a good start toward a recreation area.

The group asked the board for aid in taking over and developing the area, but was told the financial budget could not stand any further stretching and other areas were in more desperate need. However, if the residents would raise some funds for suitable supervision, the board would do its best to get a project started, the parents were told.

Out of this came "Project Bald Eagle." The association is led in the project by Joseph V. Moran, president; Emanuel Blumberg, project chairman, and Mrs. William C. Mortimer of 4015 1st st. sw., fund drive chairman.

The Washington Post

Possible recreation area shown where 25 local children and families play at Nichols ave. and Joliat st. sw. Building would serve 4500 families in Washington Highlands area.

The immediate goal is to raise $2500 of which $1500 will be turned over to the Recreation Board for salary of a properly qualified recreation leader, and the remainder for renovation of the single-story frame building left behind by the Navy, which will be made into a community center.

Among the proposed activities, tentatively scheduled to get under way on June 18, are play groups for preschool children; organization of Boy and Girl Scout units, as well as a youth canteen, and establishment of an adult program of meetings and social gatherings.

Fund drive solicitors will make a door-to-door canvass of the 4500 family units within a 10-block radius of the proposed recreation area, after which they will join other parents in the construction program.

Area News in Brief

Gold Ore Reported On Maryland Farm

H. Frank Rothery, District fireman who roams these parts in search of gold when he isn't putting out blazes, yesterday reported he'd hit the jackpot.

He and his partners, Rothery said, have pulled gold-bearing ore out of the earth near Winfield, Md., that assays a sweet $96 a ton.

"That's right good ore," he says.

Rothery, who lives on Route 1, Falls Church, and Fowler W. Stevens, engineer and former Rockville resident, have sunk a 42-foot shaft in a field on the farm of Charles Costley, near Winfield. Not only did they find the yellow metal in sulphide ore, but they think they're about to run into quartz rock, which could contain "free gold."

Only question bothering the firefighter is—"Can we handle enough ore to make it pay?" The partners plan to set up a mining plant soon, using equipment from a nearby quarry.

If things don't pan out, however, Rothery and Stevens have an ace in the hole. They'll take their equipment to another farm, this one in Fairfax County, Va., near Clifton.

They've spotted the stuff there, too, they said.

May Be Record

Pharmacist Takes D. C. Test at 66

Fifteen years ago Julius Wohl marked his twenty-first year as a pharmacist in Baden-Baden, Germany. After forced wanderings in five countries, the 66-year-old pharmacist has finally taken steps toward resuming his profession here.

Julius Wohl

Considered one of the oldest, if not the oldest, person ever taking the District Board of Pharmacy examinations, Wohl completed the test necessary for a license to resume his lifelong occupation.

His lined face showing the results of his years of uprooted existence, Wohl declared, "I hope I will pass. You know it is not easy for an old man."

Wandering Began in 1933

The Wohl family wanderings began in 1933 when Hitler's religious doctrines forced Wohl to close his shop in Baden-Baden and move to another city where he found employment with a pharmaceutical manufacturing firm. But in 1937, the family had to leave the country.

The next stop was Athens, Greece, where Wohl joined a Greek partner in operating another pharmacy, but this time the German Gestapo, a potent influence there, beginning a drive against all immigrants, evicted the Wohls once more.

Wohl became friendly with a member of the English embassy staff and arranged to enter Cyprus, where they stayed two years. When World War II broke out, all immigrants on Cyprus were evacuated, the Wohls going to Palestine, a country they were not allowed to remain in, much as they wanted to.

Taught First Aid

After five months there, their next home was Tangyanika, East Africa, a British mandate, where Wohl, learning the native tongue of Swahili, secured a position teaching first aid to natives and running a hospital pharmacy. But then came malaria and a return to Cyprus.

Finally, the "wonderful" passport to the United States arrived and the Wohls embarked for what they hoped was a "real home, where we can have our own furniture and stay in one place."

our 67th Anniversary

SINCE its establishment — April 14, 1881 — the Washington Permanent Building Association has loaned many millions of dollars to home buyers and home owners. It has assisted materially in the development of Greater Washington by encouraging the erection of sound dwellings and the improvement of property. It has encouraged thrift. In the two constant objectives, savings and home ownership, there is security.

UPSTAIRS DOWNSTAIRS IN MILADY'S CHAMBER...

The telephone is always near—with a convenient extension.

Everyone in the family will appreciate the "extras" an extension telephone provides... the saving in steps and time... the privacy afforded on the telephone when you're entertaining guests... the assurance that the telephone is always at hand in case of an emergency.

The value is great—yet the cost is only a few pennies per day.

For complete information, simply call our Business Office.

Why You Can Get an Extension Telephone while some folks are still waiting for telephone service

Nobody is waiting for telephone service because of a lack of telephone instruments. It is the need for additional cable and central office equipment that is temporarily holding us back. We'll be able to fill new orders for service as rapidly as those facilities can be enlarged. It's a big job, but we're working harder than ever to complete it. We don't like to keep anyone waiting for telephone service.

Gridiron Members Let Ladies Hear Them Sing

By Marie McNair

The Gridiron Club boys, having their own fun Saturday night, let their wives or best girls in on some of it yesterday. President Truman, target for the newspapermen's barbs at their biannual dinner Saturday, came back for more. And this time he brought Mrs. Truman.

Everybody comes early to these Gridiron parties and by the time the doors of the Congressional Room at the Statler were opened guests had queued up in the corridors.

Phelps Adams, new president of the Gridiron Club, and Mrs. Adams were hosts, and receiving with them for a time were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wright, with Lewis Wood among others taking a turn at welcoming the guests.

Someone said "This looks like a flower garden," glancing around the well-filled room. At least every other lady there had contributed to the effect.

The First Lady's hat was white straw with a flaring brim off the face, softly veiled in pale green and trimmed with roses in muted tones. With it she wore a black frock and furs about her shoulders.

Mrs. Adams had chosen a white hat, too, with a soaring white bird for adornment, and her black frock was covered with a lei of tiny purple orchids, flown to her from her husband.

Mrs. Wilson's all black costume was topped with a round off-the-face hat, and wings trimmed Mrs Wright's black straw sailor which she wore with a black gown.

Politics in Air

Political history was in the making, no doubt, in the groups that surrounded Speaker of the House Joe Martin all the afternoon. Joseph N. Pew, jr., Carlisle Bargeron and Representative Harold Knutson were listening to the Speaker's words, while Senator Robert Taft had his own followers across the room. Mrs. Taft was there, too, with her sons.

Ray Henle was introducing Harry Moses as the "man who is fighting John L. Lewis," and Mr. Moses was adding, "but not any more."

The Peruvian Ambassador, Alfredo Ferreyros, who'd been a guest at the dinner the night before, brought Senora de Ferreyros with him, and Mme. Bonnet, wife of the French Ambassador came in with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss.

Senator Homer Ferguson was there with Mrs. Ferguson, in circulation again after a trip to Michigan and a winter illness which kept her at home.

I saw Senator Leverett Saltonstall but not Mrs. Saltonstall; the Attorney General, Tom Clark, fetching a drink for his wife, and Representative and Mrs. Mike Monroney, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Emory Land, Justice and Mrs. Harold Burton and Justice and Mrs. Stanley Reed.

Undersecretary of the Treasury, A. Lee M. Wiggins brought along his pretty daughter, Elizabeth. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tuckerman were there and Mr. and Mrs. Corcoran Thom and the Charlie Rosses. Roy Rogers, here from Kansas City where he runs "The Star," seemed to know everyone, so did the Henles—Ray and Marian.

John Hamilton There

Greeting old friends was John Hamilton, former chairman of the Republican National Committee, and others there were Presidential Adviser Clark Clifford and Mrs. Clifford; the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Arthur Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Haley Representative and Mrs. Charles Halleck and their good friends Mr. and Mrs. Francis Thomas.

Larry Ritchie, one-time presidential secretary, was in jovial mood and enjoying the Gridiron songsters were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Morris and Mrs. Emil Hurja.

It was good to see Mrs. Edward Treglown back but a few days from a winter in Nassau, browned and smiling. With her was Harold Christie here from Nassau for a short stay.

Mrs. Irene Caldwell, who says she's going to Florida next week, had with her Mr. and Mrs. George Romney who used to call Washington home, but now live in Detroit and are on their way to New York.

Off to the Races

"To the hunt country" is the password next weekend wit hthe running of the Virginia Gold Cup races on Saturday on Pete Vogel's estate, Broadview Farm, at Warrenton.

With the Virginia countryside at its best—flowering dogwood and fruit blossoms—the race course itself has been groomed to the point that it resembles a rolling lawn, dark green hemlock fences marking the new brush course over which the cream of thoroughbreds will run.

Pete Vogel has already sent out invitations for his annual cocktail party after the races and that night there'll be the usual hunt ball to be held at the Warrenton Springs Field Club.

Among those going down from Washington will be Gen. and Mrs. Gordon Young with their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carey of New York and Philadelphia; Gen. and Mrs. Clayton Adams, Lawrence A. Baker, Robert C. Baker, James M. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Reeve K. Biggers, Col. Percy G. Black, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bogley, Mrs. Ruth Lester Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. John Caswell, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Clagett, Carlton W. Eacho, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Foley, jr., John Clifford Folger, Tirey L. Ford, Mrs. J. Marvin Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hurja, Capt. and Mrs. John P. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Jones, Wayne Kendrick, Col. A. Ladousse, Dr. John H. Lyons, Mr. and Mrs. Noel J. Macy, John H. Merriam, jr., Mr. and Mrs. James A. Mitchell, Dr. and Mrs. Daniel Moffett, J. Edgar Murdock, Mr. and Mrs. John Newbold, Mr. and Mrs. Theron P. Sager, Dr. Fred R. Sanderson, Howard W. Smith.

Playhouse Premiere for Orchestra

The opening of Washington's new cinema, Tthe Playhouse, Tuesday evening, April 27 at 9, will be dedicated to a gala benefit premiere for the city's National Symphony Orchestra. Mrs. George Mesta, chairman of the committee sponsoring the debut, is enthusiastically positive that as a result of this benefit performance the Symphony drive will "go over the top."

Mrs. Fred M. Vinson, wife of the Chief Justice, has accepted the chairmanship of the committee on patrons and patronesses.

Serving on the executive committee are Mrs. George Mesta, chairman; Mrs. Edwin Watson, in charge of tickets; Mrs. Stanley Woodward, assisting Mrs. Vinson; Mrs. H. Chapman Rose, in charge of printing; Mrs. Louise Noonan Miller handling publicity, and Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe, treasurer.

The picture, "The Search," has already been picked by the New York drama critics as a leading contender for the 1948 Motion Picture Academy Award. It deals with a mother's search for her small child torn from her during the war in Europe. Tickets for the benefit performance are $5, with those attending pledging a contribution of $45 or more to the National Symphony Orchestra Association.

Hospital Board To Show Styles At Carnival

"In the Good Old Summer Time" will be the theme of a Carnival Fashion Show to be presented by the Woman's Board of the George Washington University Hospital on Tuesday, May 11, in Lisner Auditorium, featuring fashions by Garfinckel's.

Patrons and patronesses are now being invited to subscribe to this benefit, which will provide additional funds to furnish rooms and wards of the new hospital which was formally opened April 1.

Presiding at the meeting to select patrons and patronesses was Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin, wife of the president of George Washington University, assisted by the chairmen of her committees, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, Mrs. Burks Summers, Mrs. Thad H. Brown, Mrs. Walter W. Wilds, Mrs. George H. Foster, Mrs. Lewis Breuninger, Mrs. Joseph McGarraghy, Mrs. Roy St. Lewis, Mrs. Douglas Hatch, Mrs. Daniel Bruce Moffett, Mrs. Anna B. Cote, Mrs. Harold W. Krogh, and Mrs. W. Royce Powell.

The fashion carnival will be by invitation, Mrs. Marvin said, and will climax the long drive to "give a first-class hospital to the first community of the land—the Nation's Capital."

"Perhaps," Mrs. Marvin stated, "Paris is the style center in women's clothes, but here in Washington the vogue is service and the white uniform will be the new look insofar as hospital service to a great community goes."

Naval Officer Reports Careerist Crisis; His Confreres' Wives Turn Cold Shoulder On His Beautiful Highborn Chinese Bride

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a naval officer, 32, born of a fine old family, with a silver spoon in my mouth, I suppose. I met Lin two years ago in Shanghai, where she was the toast of the city, and one of the most beautiful women I've ever seen.

She is a member of one of China's wealthiest, most prominent families. Her family is Christian and basically fine. The official colony found her very acceptable; because in Shanghai it is the rule to have highly placed Chinese friends and associates.

Lin is beautifully educated, speaks flawless English, has great style and all the background of culture and refinement one can have. After eight months, I proposed; three months later, she accepted; and we were married.

Civilian Nabob Apes the Brass

PRIOR to our wedding, my family and close friends in the States were writing in hysterical protest; but after we married they seemed to accept the situation and wrote very kindly to Lin. Then I got my orders back to the States and of course Lin came with me.

My family was very kind to her, but friends took the attitude of "poor old Bill," and though the men were as loyal as ever, their wives were cool to Lin and very politely left us out of their social doings. I was seriously considered for a job as Naval Attache in Europe, but nothing came of it, and a high ranking officer explained that Lin, though lovely, wouldn't fit in.

I put in my resignation and went job-hunting in New York, going alone, as Lin was pregnant and indisposed. I was offered a very fine executive position with an engineering firm, which I accepted; but the offer was withdrawn as soon as the president learned I was married to a Chinese.

Sad Wife Softly Offers Divorce

TWO MONTHS ago we lost the baby and Lin seems lost, too. We have grown apart so much that she has even mentioned divorce; for my sake, I think. Perhaps it's the only way: Lin back to her life, me to mine, but I hate the thought.

Lin loves America, but she wants us to go back to China (as a last resort) where I could get a job of the same caliber as the one in New York, but with a Chinese firm; but I hate the thought, and I know I would go to pieces there. The only thing Chinese I like is Lin, although I realize that is selfish of me.

This is a challenge that both of us should be big enough to meet. I love the service and my resignation hasn't yet been acted upon, though it may be any day. Should I stay in the Navy and keep plugging? Please help us; the problem needs perspective and you have it.

W. C.

Wife Is Bigger Person Than Man

DEAR W. C.: It is unfair to say, "This is a challenge that both of us should be big enough to meet." Lin is big enough to meet it, in terms of perfect devotion to you. She is ready for any adjustment or sacrifice that would help you pull yourself together.

You are trembling and sweating (figuratively speaking) like a psychoneurotic under fire, in the face of the home-front barrage of unconscionable snobbery loosed at Lin. You aren't big enough to meet the attack with dignity and loyalty to her; and it is this turn of events that makes her feel lost.

Your recital (here much condensed) bristles with evidence that your essential reaction to "the challenge" is one of morbidly anxious self-concern and tacit rejection of Lin, in servile deference to clique opinion that she is a hindrance to officer-prestige, which central truth of your attitude she feels to the core, hence her offer of divorce.

It is significant that you never once speak of her as "my wife." There isn't a hint of positive, rational, cherishing regard for her.—now that your character is brought to test.

Also it is significant that Lin was the toast of Shanghai, a great belle and a great lady there, when you found her desirable; that you have to try hard to recapture ardor now, since the service set is snubbing her; and that your reaction to her courageous offer of divorce is to muse, "Perhaps it's the only way; Lin back to her life, me to mine . . ."

Man Is Puppet Of His 'Class'

BORN to privilege, your mood in courting and marrying Lin, despite hysterical protests from the American scene, was that of a man confidently accustomed to gaining objectives without strain, due to the solid backing of his class and its sycophants.

The source of your confidence was in that backing (which you'd never been without) and not in yourself, as you and Lin had supposed. With that backing only partially and tentatively withdrawn, you've gone to pieces, blown your top; and in view of all this, I feel that marriage worthy of Lin isn't in the cards here.

However, if you really want to be a man and have the potentials to be one, the best way of making the grade is to quit the Navy, and with it all striving for title achieved by pull, and enter industry through the back door, looking for work, not swank or "position." Then by practical demonstration of superior know-how, carve your niche in life the democratic way. For perspective, read "Man for Himself," by Eric Fromm (Rinehart & Co., publishers).

Survivors Of Resistance To Be Aided

Prominent Washington citizens and leaders in the Government and the Congress have been invited by Mrs. Harold Walker to a reception at her home at 2412 Massachusetts ave., at 5:30 Thursday, April 15. The purpose of the reception is to enable Allen W. Dulles and Gero V. S. Gaevernitz to explain the objectives of the American Committee to Aid Survivors of the German Resistance.

The national chairman of this committee is Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr and its tresaurer is Paul H. Kempner. Washington sponsors are Mrs. William L. Clayton, the Rev. Angus Dun, Mrs. E. R. Fickenstaedt, Joseph Grew, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Felix Morley, the Rev. John J. Russell and Col. Truman Smith. The national organizing committee includes Karl Brandt, Edward B. Burling, Allen W. Dulles, Helmut Kuhn, Henry Smith Leiper, Henry Parkman, George N. Shuster, Robert G. Sproul, Dorothy Thompson and Helen C. White.

The American Committee to Aid Survivors of the German Resistance has agreed upon four projects which are important as relief measures as well as means to building morale and helping to provide leadership for a democratic Germany. The program includes:

(a) The distribution of material aid; food, clothing and medical supplies to be sent to resistance families.

(b) Child care; children of resistance families to be sent to Sweden, Switzerland and other countries for the purposes of education and health, for a period of three to 12 months.

(c) Participation in student-exchange program: older children to be prepared for university training, to be brought for a period of at least one year to other countries, preferably the United States of America for educational purposes; necessary arrangements with colleges and universities to be made by the committee, which will also guarantee financial support.

D: Adult education: young and middle-aged adults, either survivor of the resistance or children of resistance families to be brought to other countries, preferably the United States of America, for a period of at least six months for the purpose of study in specialized fields. If feasible, during the summer months, an educational center to be established within Germany, led by American professors, authorities in their respective fields, and attended by German adults, selected by the committee together with the American Military Government.

How to Keep Boys Amused

My son will be 11 years old soon and I plan to have a little dinner party for him, inviting three of his boy friends. Will you give me some suggestions for games or any entertainment for boys 11 and 12 years old.

J. P.

Here's one idea which might prove entertaining to a small group: As favors, provide each boy with a kit for making a wooden airplane or ship. These can be obtained at dime and toy stores and come with all parts cut ready for assembling. Set up two card tables covered with newspapers and let the boys assemble the toys. Most of these toys can be assembled in 30 to 45 minutes and so there would be time for the boys to play with them when completed. Each boy takes his own toy home as a souvenir.

Perhaps, taking the group, after dinner, to a well-chosen movie in the neighborhood would appeal. Of course, permission to take the boys should be obtained from each of their parents before the party and care must be taken to give adequate chaperonage to the group and to deliver each guest to his door at the close of the evening.

On the other hand, if you wish to plan a party of games the boys might enjoy such games as "Twenty Questions" or "Who Am I?" Names of famous men are pinned on the back of each guest, the object of the game being for each person to find out who he is by asking questions of the others. "Categories" is also a good game for this age. Give each player a piece of paper and a pencil. Each guest draws a diagram of squares on the sheet with six squares across and five squares down, 30 squares in all. Choose a five letter word such as "bears" and place one letter in each square across the top, skipping the first square. Choose four different categories for the vertical squares such as animals, bodies of water, clothing, American cities. The idea is for each boy to fill in the squares, starting by choosing names of animals which begin with B-E-A-R and S and so forth until all squares are filled. First one finished receives a prize.

I have a large black lacquer table inlaid with mother-of-pearl which was made in Korea. The dry heat in the apartment has caused the lacquer to buckle and the mother-of-pearl is chipping out. I would appreciate it if you could tell me someone who could look at the table and help me to prevent further damage.

A. S. C.

Look under "Furniture Refinishing-Repairing" in the yellow pages of the telephone directory for someone to restore your table. Probably those firms which restore antiques will be best qualified to do the job.

Can an Indian numdah rug be cleaned at home? W. J. D.

The most that can be done at home to clean a numdah rug is to go over it, front and back with a vacuum sweeper. These rugs, since they are pressed and matted into shape and not woven, should never be shaken. For spot removal or more thorough cleaning, I would suggest you turn it over to a reliable rug cleaner.

How can I clean my plastic shower curtain to rid it of soap scum? H. C. C.

Lay the shower curtain on a flat surface and sponge each side with a cloth moistened with vinegar. When the scum is entirely removed, rinse thoroughly by wiping with clear water and dry.

Could you advise me on buying an astrakan coat? Will prices be lower in summer? A. Z.

A helpful booklet on selecting furs is issued by a large finance company and may be obtained by sending 5 cents to Department of Research, 919 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, 11, Ill. Ask for booklet No. 8, "Better Buymanship, Use, and Care of Furs." The best bargains in fur coats are usually available at late winter sales, but some excellent values can also be found at the summer events.

I am planning to try a plastic base floor polish on badly worn floors. Would I be wise to wash my floors with a linseed soap or gasoline. In the last floor cleaning process I first used linseed soap and a liquid wax.

S. S.

Linseed soap is one of the best agents to use in cleaning soiled floors and furniture. It is not inflammable, is easy on the hands, and does a thorough job. Be sure to rinse off all soap well and dry thoroughly before applying the plastic polish.

Navy Pinweight More Concerned With Ice Cream

Annapolis, April 11 (AP).—H. M. (Spike) Webb, authority of fisticuffs and vivid language, surveyed a line of perspiring warriors beside the Naval Academy ring today.

"Great bunch of fighters," the Navy physical edcuation instortor said proudly. "The put on a real show."

The 40 principals, more concerned with a 10-gallon of ice cream than anything else, had just weathered the thirtieth annual Navy Junior Boxing Championships. They ranged at age 2½, 32 pounds to age 11 and 94 pounds.

The opening bout matched the tiniest contestants—Quentin Crommelin, son of a Navy flyer stationed here, and Lanny Wolf, son of an English instructor.

Quentin, going on four and all of 33 pounds, won. It was understandable. He had a full year and a one-pound weight advantage on Lanny.

VMI Building Up Storehouse of Civil War Data

Lexington, Va., April 11 (AP).—Virginia Military Institute's Preston Library is becoming the storehouse of books and manuscripts dealing with the War Between the States.

The project of making VMI headquarters for material on the subject was begun by the United Daughters of the Confederacy's Miami convention last November.

Since then UDC chapters in 40 States have been at work augmenting the collection of historical papers. Contributions and inquiries are received daily by Miss Margaret Jones, VMI librarian.

"We already have most of the publications dealing with the War Between the States," Miss Jones says, "but we are asking the chapters to try and find local histories of Confederate States, counties and cities which will make our library complete."

Durant Case Appeal To Be Heard Today

Richmond, April 11 (AP).—A Government appeal in the case of ex-WAC Capt. Kathleen Nash Durant, who served part of a five-year sentence for theft of the Hesse crown jewels, will be heard here tomorrow in the Fourth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Williamsburg Gets 10 Tons of British Antiques

Williamsburg, Va., April 11 (AP).—Everything from rare bottles to eighteenth century dresses and gaming tables—20,000 pounds of antiques—are being uncrated, checked and photographed and will be used in the restored and reconstructed public buildings here.

The antiques, probably the most diverse collection yet assembled here, were purchased during a three-month search through the British Isles last summer by James L. Cogar, curator for Colonial Williamsburg.

More than 500 different categories of antiques make up this new addition of old furnishings for Williamsburg.

5 Candidates File For Stanley Council

Stanley, Va., April 11 (Spl.).—Only five persons have filed for the Town Council election here in June.

They are W. J. Huffman and Willie Robinson, incumbents and Emmett Alger, Reuben Koontz and N. J. Louderback.

Those elected will serve a three-year term, instead of the present two years as the result of a special provision passed by the State Legislature, permitting the Stanley terms to expire at the same time the terms of councilmen in Shenandoah and Luray expire.

Sanley selects its mayor from elected councilmen.

'Miss Falmouth' Chosen

Fredericksburg, Va., April 11 (Spl.).—Miss Lucille Patton was chosen as "Miss Falmouth of 1948" in a beauty contest at Falmouth High School last night as part of a "country fair" staged by the senior class and home economics club. Miss Patton, a freshman, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Patton, Hartwood.

Sales Tax Bite Near 1⅓ Billion In U. S. Last Year

Chicago, April 11 (AP).—State sales taxes took $1,315,096,000 bite out of the American budget last year.

The total, a new record, is twice as great as collections five years ago and compares with $1,030,000,000 in 1946. Sales taxes now produce more revenue than any other type of State levy. They account for more than one fifth of total State tax collections.

The Federation of Tax Administrators predicted that sales taxes would continue to climb. The group attributed its view to the belief that (1) the Marshall Plan and other foreign aid programs will sustain full production; (2) recent Federal income tax cuts will stimulate spending, and (3) inflation will continue.

Currently, 27 States levy general taxes or gross receipts taxes. Connecticut, Maryland, Rhode Island and Tennessee adopted the levy last year.

Alligator Kept Warm by Couple's 3-to-a-Bed Plan

Berlin, April 11 (AP).—In the Reichelt family, they sleep three to a bed—Poppa Reichelt, Momma Reichelt and Max, who happens to be an alligator.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Reichelt have other pets—dogs, cats, snakes, rabbits and monkeys—but it is only the 6-foot, 150-pound alligator that slept with them every night last winter.

The 25-year-old Max was singled out for this privilege because otherwise, say his owners, he would have died of the cold.

"He is a most reliable alligator," says Heichelt. "He's completely clean. He never snores, coughs or makes other noises."

In the morning Max gets restless. He tosses back and forth until he gets a piece of cake. Max lives on three to four pounds of spoiled meat a day.

The majority of cases in Virginia are reported during June and July with secondary concentration appearing in the spring and fall months. Scattered cases have occured in the mountain area of the State, but most are found in the east.

Helping Children Learn to Share

By Dr. Ernest G. Osborne

No one is born unselfish. It is natural for the young child to want to keep his own things for himself, and we must help him learn to share.

There is no one simple method. If, when other youngsters are expected, Mother says: "Johnny is coming to play with you today. What do you think he would like to play with—this auto or these blocks?" the 4- or 5-year-old will have a feeling that he has helped decide and the sharing won't be so hard.

Or you have a special "visitor's toy box," which is kept only for those occasions when other youngsters visit. It's not quite so hard for Junior to share some loved toy if the visitor has one from "his" toy box that he will exchange.

When a child has allowed a playmate to use his possessions, give him a pat on the back and you gradually will convince him that sharing isn't so bad after all.

Parents must have patience and must help to develop these and other similar learning experiences in the youngsters. Also, a willingness to share an automatic pencil or a favorite handkerchief once in a while with Junior and Junior Miss will help "civilize" them.

When you say

"COME BACK AGAIN"

It costs your carrier time and money

YOUR Washington Post carrier has to pay for the papers he's delivered whether he collects from you or not. So when you ask him to "come back later" because you're not prepared for his visit, it's money out of his pocket to meet his bill and time out of his day to call on you again.

If you work for a salary you expect to be paid the first time you see the paymaster on payday. If you run a business you expect your customers to send in their checks for your services promptly. You have expenses of your own and it takes money to meet them. Just so, your carrier depends on payment from you to take care of his expenses.

When you fail him on collection night it may mean a sacrifice of money he needs for immediate personal, home or school purposes. If you ask him to return later he's wasted the time that it took to visit you—and a carrier's life is a busy one. He has a seven-day-a-week early morning job in addition to going to school, doing his homework and joining in outside activities.

Be fair with your carrier. Pay him on time. And if you're moving, notify him in advance. Papers delivered after you've moved do you no good, and your carrier has to pay for them. If you don't see the boy, call NA. 4200 and tell Circulation.

Your carrier will thank you for your cooperation by giving you the best of service.

Nearly 4000 See Showplaces Here In Embassy Tour

A record number of nearly 4000 persons Saturday viewed the Capital's showplaces along Embassy Row in the seventh annual House and Embassy Tour given for the benefit of the Washington Home for Incurables.

Mrs. Truman arrived at 3:30 p. m. and stayed for more than an hour at Mrs. George Mesta's home on S st. where refreshments were offered. The First Lady served in the receiving line there with Mrs. Mesta, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. George Tyson, Mrs. James L. Houghteling, president of the Home for Incurables, and Mrs. Paul Magnuson, chairman of the tour committee.

A corps of leading women of Washington diplomatic, official and residential society was on duty at each of the other nine places open for the tour to receive the guests and answer questions about the grounds and house furnishings. Especially colorful were the costumed children at the Philippine and Greek Embassies.

3-2 Vote Favors Play Center Fund At Garrett Park

Garrett Park, Md., citizens voted 141 to 96 Saturday to accept $7500 offered by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission for a community playground and center there.

The "turnout" represented about 90 per cent of the town's voters, according to George L. Payne, co-chairman of the Community Center Committee. Garrett Park town council sponsored the voting.

Payne said the three-to-two majority favoring acceptance of the grant was "almost exactly" the same as results of two previous votes conducted by the Garrett Park Citizens' Association and a mail survey taken by a committee of organizations in the town.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Nobody Likes Bushy Eyebrows Except Herblock

Mrs. Russell Roller of 7135 Chestnut st. nw. asks, "Has anybody remarked yet about the resemblance between Stassen and Eisenhower?"

Yep. The first person to make such observation (to my knowledge) was our able cartoonist, Herblock.

Herb was doing a political sketch one day, and wanted to include both Stassen and Eisenhower. After much experimentation, his eraser was practically worn to a nub, and Herb said:

"There ought to be a law requiring men in public life not to resemble other men in public life. Or, at the very least, they should make things easier for us cartoonists by growing distinctive facial shrubbery—like a walrus mustache, a beard, or bushy eybrows."

SUCCESS STORY

The following communication has been received from Mrs. Joseph Custer Fought of 200 East Marshall st., Falls Church, Va.:

"The teen-agers have asked me to drop you a line to express their appreciation for your help in their campaign to launch their canteen.

"We not only had a Washington Post photographer out here, but the newsreel and television people were here, too, and I understand the pictures are being shown at the Trans Lux.

"In addition to the check from Mr. Nalls, the Canteen is now getting splendid support from other District Liners. One gentleman drove in for some gas, got the teen-agers' super special service, and offered to donate all the Venetian blinds for the Canteen.

"A local real estate office will turn over all the commissions from a weekend of business. A dentist is going to donate a day's income; two other garages want to hold Teen Days.

"A contractor is giving us the cinder block necessary for the foundation; another real estate man has donated the roofing material, amounting to more than $750.

"So we hope to invite you to our opening night celebration much sooner than we previously thought possible."

GIVE-AWAYS

"Some folks may not approve of your Give-Away items, but we do. We have two black kittens to give away; males, 6 weeks old." (Wisconsin 7744).

MEET "ANNE AND DUTCH"

A few days ago we ran a picture of a match folder which bore the inscription, "Anne and Dutch, June 20, 1948." Peggy Feyling's curiosity demanded an explanation.

Mrs. M. H. Bargteil of 1310 Emerson st. nw. gave us our first clew. Her niece was married in Canada last June and the bridegroom (being a printer by trade) printed up some match folders to commemorate the event.

The folders carried the names of the couple, the date of the wedding, and the words, "A Good Match."

Roshan W. Dyar of Glenn Dale, Md., confirmed the suspicion that "Anne and Dutch" were up to the same sort of stunt. He pointed out that personalized match covers are now being widely used to announce upcoming weddings.

Then Henry Lesser of 5921 14th st. nw. called up to say, "If you haven't already solved the mystery, you will in short order."

And just then the mailman deposited on my desk an envelope which obviously contained a picture. Here's what I found inside:

From Midshipman H. B. Lipschutz of Bancroft Hall, U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., came the solution to our mystery. He writes:

"Anne is Anne Gordon of 3451 14th st. nw. and Dutch is me.

"We originally planned to marry on June 20, but later we changed the date to June 6—which will be two days after graduation.

"When we changed the date, I had to order new matches—but I never dreamed that the old ones would turn up in the District Line.

"Please return the picture as soon as you're finished with it, because my desk looks very empty without it."

Thanks, Dutch. The picture is already on its way back to you, and all the District Liners wish you and Anne lots of luck.

REBUTTAL

Dorothy Ferchaud Hoffmann of 208 Webster st. ne. takes exception to another District Liner's reference to Huey Long as "Big Chief Wind Bag." Says Dorothy:

"I don't think the name should be applied to him—because of the many hospitals he built; the homes for the deaf, the mute and the blind; the paved roads; the bridges and the schools and all the other good works—which are still remembered and appreciated by the people of his State."

PERSONAL NOTES

Fraser Gardner, 5410 3d st. nw.: The sheep you saw grazing near the Municipal Building work for the Health Department.

Sallie Pierson, care of the Kennedy-Warren: You don't have to miss the District Line when you leave town; we sell mail-order subscriptions. (In radio, we call this "sneaking in a commercial.")

Helen Madeline Moore, 3164 18th st. nw.: Dick Coe says, "Good catch; it should have been 'Bells of St. Mary's' and not 'Going My Way.' As to who made the error: Ingrid Bergman referred to the wrong picture, and I just jotted it down that way in my notes. It didn't occur to me that she'd forget the names of the pictures in which she's appeared."

LABOR SAVING DEVICE

"I suspect that the operator of a Connecticut ave. bus answered the same question many times Sunday before he printed up a little home-made sign and stuck it in his front window. The sign said:

"Yes—we stop at the Zoo."

NEW YORK.—The stockholders' meeting at the American Tobacco Co. was disappointing. Because of the resignation of George W. Hill, jr., and Emerson Foote's announcement that his advertising firm was dropping the American Tobacco account, a proxy battle was expected at the meeting. But there were no incidents—except some of the directors recited these lines: "Young George Hill, Went up the hill, To fetch a pail of proxies; George fell down, And broke his crown, And Foote came tumbling after."

MGM sent a print of its old movie, "Ninotchka"—the Garbo picture which razzes the Soviet—to an Italian theater in Turin. It broke the house record. At the request of the State Department, MGM then sent 35 prints of "Ninotchka" to Italy for showing during the current electioneering period. These 35 prints are being shown in 50 theaters simultaneously, and messengers on bicycles are shuttling the prints from theater to theater.

Mrs. Howard S. Cullman, the show-angel, was at a Hollywood dinner party where she sat next to a distinguished gray-haired man. "How do you spell your name?" he asked her. "She told him: "C-u-l-l-m-a-n," and then asked him how he spells his name. He told her "C-o-l-m-a-n" . . . "Oh, Colman," said Mrs. Cullman. "Like in 'Ronald Colman'?" . . . "Exactly," replied the Academy Award winner.

Virginia Leigh, the debutante-columnist, went to the Stork Club one night, and told Morton Downey about her visit backstage at the circus. "I had an awful experience," she reported. "An elephant had me backed against the wall" . . . "That should give you some idea," said Downey, "how Truman must feel."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman's Fault Is Hip-Shooting

By Drew Pearson

Editor's Note—On the anniversary of President Truman's third year in office, Drew Pearson hands him the brass ring, good for one free ride—and in this case a rough one—on the Washington Merry-Go-Round.)

A few months after Franklin D. Roosevelt's death catapulted Harry Truman into the most important elective office in the world, he was sitting on the front porch of the summer bungalow of the Widow Morris at Reelsfoot Lake, Tenn. Newspapermen in the party asked him about the atomic bomb. Would the United States, they queried, keep the bomb's know-how a secret? The new President emphatically replied that we would.

Almost falling off the porch, newsmen scurried into the night, looking for telephones.

Mr. Truman looked around at George Allen.

"What did they want to leave for?" he asked. "There's still plenty of liquor."

Harry Truman did not seem to realize that his words as President of the United States meant a lot more than his words as Harry Truman, the Senator.

Three years have now passed since the fateful afternoon when Harry Truman became President of the United States, and even today he still does not seem to realize that his words and actions reverberate around the wrld. As Jimmie Byrnes describes it, he still shoots from the hip, he still makes snap decisions that influence the fate of millions. He still seems unconcerned that our jerky, up-and-down-hill, somersault policies would make it difficult for our friendliest allies to remain our allies—except that we have too much money to lend. They never know what we're going to stand for day after next.

Sizing Up Truman

When historians chronicle the story of Harry Truman, they will probably evaluate him as honest, sincere, courageous, stubbornly right about such domestic policies as price control, taxes, civil rights, labor and monopoly. But they will also accuse him of putting personal loyalty ahead of national welfare. They will find that his temper frequently proved his undoing, that he was bot-headed, unbalanced in times of crisis, and so frequently flew off the handle on vital decisions that the American people finally lost confidence.

The trouble is that no President can afford to make many mistakes.

Jimmie Byrnes, when Secretary of State, was always careful to warn Truman, when he had to decide on an international matter, not to make up his mind until he, Byrnes, had explained both sides. Byrnes knew that if he wanted to, he could get any decision he wished merely by presenting one side first. For one of Truman's greatest weaknesses is shooting from the hip.

That's why Secretary of Defense Forrestal, in a few brief minutes of pleasant conversation, was able to reverse a decision made by the Truman Administration and the United Nations on Palestine after weeks of careful debate.

Even after three years of holding press conferences, Harry Truman still does not realize that his words reverberate around the world. Last month, he called this columnist a liar. This affected only one man. But in the very same press conference he also called his own Secretary of State a liar on Chinese policy. This affected 400 million people.

Chinese Communists

He said that at no time had the United States considered taking Chinese Communists into the Chinese government. Newsmen attending the conference, realizing Truman's mistake, tried to save him. They asked questions calculated to remind the President that he himself had sent a Special Ambassador to China for the express purpose of getting the Chinese Communists to participate in the Kuomintang government.

But either the President couldn't remember or didn't want to remember this once widely publicized fact.

He himself, when General Marshall was appointed Special Ambassador to China, had announced that Marshall was undertaking the mission in order to bring the Communists and Chiang Kai-shek into a coalition government. And Marshall on his return from China announced to the world that he had failed bceause of recalcitrance on both sides. These were irrefutable, public statements.

Yet the President stubbornly stuck to his contrary statement, even when newsmen diplomatically gave him a chance to crawl off the limb.

Stalin has deserved many a bawling-out as far as Soviet-American relations are concerned. But you can't reprimand a chief of state as if he were a schoolboy on the first day you meet him—and then expect future relations to be cordial.

So when historians chalk up the final record of Harry S. Truman they may well compare him to a freight-locomotive engineer, who suddenly finds himself pulling a streamliner. And as we near the end of Harry's run, the United States of America is still on the tracks, but the sleepless, shaken-up passengers just don't want to ride with him at the throttle any more. At the next division point they are pretty sure to seek a new engineer.

The National Archives

And Its People Who Preserve the Records of Our Great Country

The National Archives . . . contain records dating back to the American Revolution. On hand are about one hundred thousand sound recordings, four hundred thousand maps and charts, one million two hundred thousand photographic items and seven million five hundred thousand running feet of motion picture film. Selected items, such as World War II surrender documents, are on display in the Exhibition Hall.

The National Archives . . . where archivists must sift billions of words of Federal records every year . . . to separate those of permanent value from those which can be destroyed. There are enough government records in existence at any one time to fill a line of filing cabinets over seven hundred miles long . . . from which our permanent records are chosen.

The National Archives . . . provided valuable information for the Armed Forces during the last war. Records of the Weather Bureau, for example, were carefully studied before such vital operations as the Normandy Invasion were undertaken. Maps of the War, Navy and State Departments were of value in locating bombing objectives.

The National Archives . . . operates the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library at Hyde Park, N. Y. In it are housed books, personal papers and museum material referring to the career of the late President.

The National Archives . . . are entered through the largest doors in the world. Each is forty-nine feet high and weighs ten tons . . . yet they open silently at the touch. Located near the point of the Federal Triangle, the National Archives Building is one of the most beautiful in Washington.

All of the material contained herein has been secured from the National Archives and the Library of Congress.

Stored in one hundred thirty-five thousand filing cabinets in the National Archives Building . . . kept under armed guard day and night in temperature-controlled rooms . . . and tended to by hundreds of highly skilled men and women . . . are America's most treasured documents. Here can be found the Bill of Rights . . . the Emancipation Proclamation . . . World War II surrender documents . . . letters from the heads of foreign states . . . court decisions . . . records of the General Land Office, on which rest the titles to most of the land in our country . . . and countless other forms, vouchers, accounts, letters and maps which serve to record our government's official acts. Here also can be found many motion picture films and wire recordings on which much of the history of our country has been preserved. The National Archives is literally a storehouse of America's most precious records.

But the National Archives is not only a repository for valuable documents . . . it also serves to make these records useful to all our Federal agencies and private institutions and individuals. The Army, for example, might want historical data on weather conditions in Alaska, to aid in the building of air bases . . . the personnel file of a Federal employee might be used to calculate his authorized retirement pay . . . an historian might want vital information on early America. The National Archives stands ready to assist whenever and wherever possible . . . and annually handles over two hundred fifty thousand such requests for knowledge. Carved in the stone base of one of the four figures guarding the entrances to the Archives building are the words: "What is Past is Prologue" . . . taken from one of Shakespeare's plays. It is a fitting maxim for one of America's treasure houses . . . and symbolizes the mission of those Washingtonians who preserve the records of our great country.
